OPERATION OF THE SCHOOL ACT IN CARLETON.

The new School Act came into operation on the 1st January, and the ratepayers were required to meet in their districts on the 11th of that month, to take the initiatory steps to put the Law in operation. Six days notice were given by the posting up of two printed handor more of the residents, and gave them their endeavors by the advice and cosome oral information. The initiatory steps required from the people of the distriet were that they should assemble at

A district, sufficiently extensive geographically, but which contains now perhaps three or four families, may in two or three years so grow in numbers as to be able to set about the building of a school house. Just at present the Inspectation.

In King's Ward, the old the public school system full length in one of the births, apparently full length in one of the births, appa day, now contains eleven school districts, Vanwart, Assessor. and six of these are preparing to build new school houses. This will explain why a few districts, hanging on the verge of the settlements, have not organized, of the settlements, have not organized.
