STRANGE SEQUEL TO A HANGING.

We are about to relate one of the most astounding developments that has ever come to light in this Western community, we may safely assert, within the recollection of any truthful person. The occurrence commencing with the killing of Kelley and the hanging of his murderer, with all its ghastly sequels, is not nearly equal to the dreadful scenes that subsequently followed, as related to us by an eye witness. It will be remembered that the dead culprit was boxed and buried by the undertaker, Mr. Eicholtz, a short distance from the town cemetery. On the night following his burial Mr. Johnston, a Texas cattle dealer, was returning from his herd. It was one of those beautiful moonlight nights for which this latitude is famous. In the bright moonlight he continued his journey far into the night. On approaching Abilene he noticed the suspicious movement of three persons, who were apparently digging in an isolated locality. Dismounting he tied his horse, and approaching, hid himself in a favored spot. He discovered the parties to be two well-known physicians of Abilene and a colored man.

Presently the spade of the negro struck a hard substance. "That's it," said one, and they shortly after had in full view a large box, whose cover was ripped off in less time than it takes to relate it. No words were spoken, and in a short time the musical ticking of a galvanic battery was heard, with an occasional sigh, apparently from the box. Presently his blood running cold, his hair standing on end, the terror stricken looker-on saw the form of the sitting erect in his box. Whereupon the negro, more frightened than he, commenced yelling and shrieking in the most piteous manner. "Shut up!" said one; "you will have the people in Abilene after us," as the other doctor passionately struck the negro with an iron bar used in prying open the box. The other gazing at the new corpse attentively, knelt down by his side, put his hand over his skull now saturated with his life's current, and in mild but emphatic words said: "He's dead." Then ensued a moment of such acting as, our informant tells us, he never before witnessed. Anger, terror grief and remorse were quickly followed by an almost unnatural coolness as the two quietly drew forth the resurrected criminal from his box and again nailed the lid over a corpse not to be resuscitated—that of the darkey himself. Quietly they proceeded with their original work, applying the plates of the poles of their battery first over one collar bone, then over the other, while the other plate was placed apparently over the stomach. While this was being done by one worker the other seemed to alternate the work by repressing the chest.

Assiduously these two silent men worked on, not a word spoken or scarce an utterance given, unless from the enlivening hulk that lay before them. Ever and anon a movement of some part of the body before them would attract attention. At last the first worker, taking a vial from his pocket, poured a few drops into the mouth of the subject. He seemed satisfied, for he stopped his work, and, putting his hand on the heart, remarked:

"IT BEATS NATURALLY."

A few moments longer, and another application from the bottle, when the patient spoke audibly, and, in reply to questions, gave a full occurrence during what were supposed to be his last moments. Hanging, he said, was rather pleasant than otherwise, for after the first spasmodic struggle for breath a delightful tickling sensation followed his veins to the tips of his limbs. Consciousness seemed to loose itself very gradually, and for a time a portion of the brain seemed to retain its vitality. The happiest moment of a lifetime was centered in a dream at that instant. Feeling and all thoughts of the occurrences about him went with his efforts for breath, and at last darkness clouded the remainder of his mind. From that moment until he found himself in the hands of science he knew nothing. Our informant, for lack of time, promises further developments for next week's issue; meanwhile the attention of the authorities will be called to these facts.—Abilene Chronicle.

POLYGAMY STILL IN FULL BLOOM.—The petition of four hundred women of Utah, praying that the protection of the General Government may not be withdrawn from them by the admission of that Territory as a State, sets forth that a large proportion of the signers have been members of the Mormon Church for many years, and that numbers of them have had a personal and very bitter experience of the practical workings of polygamy. The petitioners say that thousands of women within the Territory of Utah are to-day in a condition of abject slavery, and earnestly appeal to Congress not to take any steps that will cut off all hope of their deliverance. They assert that within the past three months polygamous marriages have rather increased than diminished, and that since the 1st of November scores of young girls have been married to men who had already from two to five families. They pertinently enquire whether it is reasonable to suppose that a people who defy the law thus openly while under the direct supervision of Congress will order their internal affairs any better when invested with the prerogatives of a State government.

Believing that only the strong arm of the Federal Government can secure to the inhabitants of Utah the rights guaranteed them by the Constitution of the country, these women urgently pray that this protection may not be withdrawn. It is not to be presumed that the application of Utah for admission to the Union as a State will receive any favor in Congress, as it is evident that the measure is designed only to strengthen the rule of Brigham Young and the Mormon priesthood.—New York Sun.

INTERESTING TO LAWYERS.—An opinion has just been expressed by the Chief Justice, before whom the Tichborne case was tried, that will interest members of the legal profession every where. His Lordship, to use the words of a Canadian contemporary, upon the last day of the trial made some remarks upon Mr. Holmes' connection with the case, and expressed the opinion that an Attorney is not bound to preserve silence as to what he knows about a case which turns out to be a fraud or imposture, though he may have acquired his knowledge under the seal of professional confidence. Mr. Holmes who was Solicitor for the claimant for some time, and subsequently abandoned the case, has acted upon the opinion and has addressed a letter to the Attorney General, stating that all the papers in his possession with regard to the case shall be preserved, in order that they may, if required, be produced at the Claimant's trial for perjury. He has also signified his willingness, in accordance with the views expressed by the Chief Justice, to appear in the witness box and depose to all he knows with reference to the case. This evidence will probably prove very important in the trial for perjury.—Tribune

The Hon. William Muirhead has completed an arrangement with Sir Hugh Allan to put on a line of monthly passenger and freight steamers from Liverpool direct to Miramichi, and has received from Hon. Mr. Langevin the promise of an immediate appointment of an engineer, in order to have the bar at Miramichi deepened to facilitate the continuance of the line. Mr. Muirhead has also taken a deep interest in the construction of a line of Railway up the Miramichi Valley from Chatham to Fredericton, a distance of a hundred miles, which when completed, will give a direct line from New York, Chicago and Montreal, 300 miles shorter than the Halifax Route. The Hon. gentleman has been aided considerably in his scheme by the Hon. Mr. Mitchell, and the successful issue of the enterprize will no doubt be highly appreciated by the New Brunswickers, who will largely benefit by this new arrangement.—Ottawa Citizen.

WHAT "ULTRAMONTANE" MEANS.—The term "ultramontane" is much used in books and newspapers, and but little understood. It is one of those words which from representing a locality, has come to represent a religious belief and a political party. Ultramontane literally means beyond the mountains. When used as a political term it refers to Italy and the political and religious tenets of the Church of Rome. Ultramontanism is a belief in the unbounded supremacy of the Pope and the union of the Church with the State. Representatives of these principles, in whatever nation of Europe they are found, are called ultramontanes. In Spain, in France, in Germany and in Austria the ultramontane party has been a strong element in the direction of public affairs.

In one ship-building establishment in Philadelphia, there are five first-class iron steamships in process of construction, with an aggregate tonnage of 13,000 tons, which will require for their construction 16,000,000 pounds of iron, and the ships, when completed, will cost $2,500,000.
