'Tis all the fruits of love. To save the darling child from woe, And guard it from all harm; From all the griefs you feel below-

And whispers o'er the weeping friends,

To call a child above;

I called it to My arms. Ah! do not rashly with Me strive. Nor vainly fast or weep;

The child though dead is yet alive, And only fallen asleep. Tis on the Saviour's bosom laid And teels no sorrow there;

Tis by an heavenly parent fed. And needs no more your care. To you the child was only lent, While mortal it was thine: But now in robes immortal pent.

It lives forever Mine. Arise and run the heavenly road, Nor in dumb moaning sit; Look upward towards the child's abode, And haste to follow it.
