Miscellaneous.

OLD ROMAN BABIES.—I must say a few words about the babies and young children. They are made bond-slaves at birth, for the first thing the nurse does after ablution is to wind around the infant—arms, body, and legs—swaddling-cloths, and these usually indicated the rank of the parents. Some are wrapped in very costly stuffs tied with a golden band; others with a fine white shawl, such as wealthy ladies wear in cold weather in their houses, fastened with scarlet strings: while the poor wrap their babes in fillets of common cloth. The old Lacedemonians seem to have been wiser, for they only wrapped a broad fillet of linen around the body, and left the arms and legs full liberty.

These Romans put their babes into cradles of various forms. The most common are those of a boat and a hollow shield. Josephus, the Jew I have mentioned, tells me that the infant of the great law-giver of his people was saved by his having been concealed among the osiers of the Nile by his mother in a boat-cradle. Sometimes, when the baby is a year old, the mother shaves its head and puts jewels in its ears, if it be a girl; and so soon as it begins to walk an ornament called bulla is hung about its neck. This is often only a disk of metal, with the name of the child's family engraved upon it, so that the little one may be identified if lost; but more often it is a hollow metal case, sometimes highly ornamented, which contains charms against evil spirits. The children of the poor have disks of leather so marked that the babe may be identified.—Harper's Magazine.

WHY WE SHOULD WEAR BEARDS.—There are more solid inducements for we ring the beard than the mere improvement of a man's personal appearance and the cultivation of such an aid to the every-day diplomacy of life. The hair of the moustache not only absorbs the moisture and miasma of the fogs, but it strains the air of the dust and soot of our great smoky cities. It acts also in the most scientific manner, by taking the heat from the warm breath as it leaves the chest, and supplying it to the cold air taken in. It is not only a respirator, but with a beard entire we are supplied with a comforter as well, and these are never left at home like the umbrella and all such appliances when they are wanted. Moffat and Livingstone, the explorers and many other travelers, say that at night no wrapper can equal the beard. A remarkable fact is, too, that the beard, like the hair of the head, protects against the heat of the sun; it acts as the thatch does to the ice house, but, more than this, it becomes moist with perspiration and then, by evaporation, cools the skin. A man who accepts this protection of nature may face the rudest storms and the hardest winter. He may go from the hottest room into the coldest air without dread; and we verily believe he might sleep in a morass with impunity; at least his chance of escaping the terrible fever would be better than his beardless companions.

A NEW SENSE.—When passing along a street I can distinguish shops from private houses, and even point out the doors and windows, &c., and this whether the doors be shut or open. When a window consists of one entire sheet of glass, it is more difficult to discover than one composed of a number of small panes. From this it would appear that glass is a bad conductor of sensation, or at any rate of the sensation specially connected with the sense. When objects below the face are perceived, the sensation seems to come in an oblique line from the object to the upper part of the face. While walking with a friend in Forest Bane, Stratford, I said, pointing to a fence which separated the road from a field, "Those rails are not quite as high as my shoulder." He looked at them and said they were higher. We, however, measured, and found them about three inches lower than my shoulder. At the time of making this observation I was about four feet from the rails. Certainly in this instance facial preception was more accurate than sight: When the lower part of the fence is brickwork, and the upper part rails, the fact can be detected, and the line where the two meet easily perceived. Irregularities in height and projections, and indentations in walls, can also be discovered. A similar sense belongs to some part of the animal creation, and especially to bats, which have been known to fly about a room without striking against anything after the cruel experiment has been made of extracting their eyes.—Levey's Blindness and the Blind.

Mr. Jones, one evening in fly time, having been provokingly lashed in the face, tied the tail of the cow he was milking very securely to his boot-strap.—Everything went on smoothly for a time and Mr. Jones congratulated himself on the stratagem. Presently, however, the cow took a notion to lash a fly that was biting her. Mr. Jones chuckled some when he felt the pull at his boot-strap; but the chuckling was cut short, for "Bossie," finding that she could not touch her tormenter, suddenly started, and as Mr. Jones was not prepared for such a demonstration, he was upset, and the contents of the pail distributed over his person.—The cow stopped for a moment, and in that time our hero had gained his feet; in an instant after, he was seen with his hand on the hip of the cow, making the tour of the barnyard with prodigious hops on one foot. At every hop he would ejaculate: "So boss! so boss!" But boss didn't "so" worth a cent. At last the boot attachment gave way, and Mr. Jones returned to the house, a wiser if not a sadder man.

JEFFERSON'S TEN RULES OF LIFE.—The following rules for practical life were given by Mr. Jefferson, in a letter of advice to his namesake, Thomas Jefferson Smith, in 1825:

1. Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day.
2. Never trouble others for what you can do yourself,
3. Never spend your money before you have it.
4. Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap.
5. Pride costs us more than hunger.
6. We never repent of having eaten too little.
7. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.
8. How much pain have those evils cost us which never happened?
9. Take things always by their smooth handle.
10. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, count a hundred.

"An old farmer named Ami, returning from market a little boozy, stopped for a nap. Awaking at night a little bewildered, he soliloquized thus: "Am I Ami or am I not Ami: if I am Ami, then where am I; if I am not Ami, then who in the duce am I?"

Sincerity is speaking and believing as we pretend, acting as we profess, performing as we promise, and being as we appear to be.

It is in the heart that God has placed the genius of woman, because the work of this genius are all works of love.—Lamartine.

PENNSYLVANIA
CENTRAL RAILROAD

Important to all Travelling West!

PARTICULAR ATTENTION is directed to the fact that Tickets on this route are cheaper, in proportion to the accomodations offered, than by any other, while the accomodations, especially in the 3rd class, are far superior. Travellers will bear in mind that no other line issues 2nd class tickets West, and that holders of a 3rd class ticket by this route can travel just as comfortably as under a 1st class ticket on other roads. The 3rd class cars are comfortable, well ventilated, furnished with cushioned seats, water, stoves, lights, water closets, &c., equal in every respect to many 1st class cars. The time made on this line is twelve hours quicker than by any other route.
Tickets sold and all necessary information furnished on application to Economy is Wealth!

W. LEONARD ALTERTON

WOULD say to all desirous of purchasing an ORGAN that before so doing it would be to their advantage to call at his Warerooms, Woodstock, and satisfy themselves that they can save money by so doing, as he buys direct from the manufacturers, and intends keeping on hand a good assortment from which to select. He has at present a few of W Bell & Co.'s Prize Medal Organs and Melodeons, allowed by competent judges to be surpassed by none. A few of McLeod & Wood's Cabinet Organs, which, for sweetness, clearness and purity of tone, cannot be surpassed. Also, a few of George Woods & Co.'s Celebrated American Organs.
Any of the above Instruments sold on the most reasonable terms. A liberal discount to Churches and Lodges.
Remember the place and give us a call; it is always an advantage to see what you are buying. You will find me, for the present, at J. G. Emery's Sewing Machine Rooms, North End of Bridge.

EPIZOOTIC REINDEERS.

NO further cause for dread of the above disease, as the undersigned has just received from the Prisons and Workhouses of Germany, hundreds of Horses, Donkeys, Mules and Reindeer, which are not at all liable to the prevailing epidemic.
The public will, no doubt, be pleased to learn that Santa Claus has still retained CHARLES A. SAMPSON as his Agent, and has consigned to him a really novel and elegant variety of Toys, Dolls, &c., for immediate sale in this City. As some of these goods are poor, I am authorized to sell them very cheap.
Sampson's Worm Lozenges are no good unless you use them.

NATIONAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.,

OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
Washington, D. C.

CASH CAPITAL, $1,000.000.

Chartered by special Act of Congress.

Approved July 25, 1868.

OFFICERS.

Clarence H. Clark, Philadelphia, President.
Jay Cooke, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
Henry D. Cooke, Washington, } Vice Presidents
E. A. Rollins, Philadelphia, }
Emerson W. Peet, Phila., Secretary & Actuary.

That the National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America is the most popular company in this country is evinced by the fact that in the first twenty months of its existence it received about 12,000 APPLICATIONS and issued 10,000 POLICIES, a much larger number than was ever issued at the same period of its existence by any other life Insurance Company in the world.
That it is the most secure company is proven by its Capital of $1,000,000. That it is honestly, correctly, and scientifically managed is guaranteed by the character and skill of its owners and managers, who, in addition to their integrity and ability, are influenced by pecuniary interests. Its rates of premium are as low as is consistent with entire safety. Its plan is entirely free from any complications of notes, interest, &c., or uncertainties and disappointments of dividends, &c. Its contracts are definite, clear, and impossible to be misunderstood or misrepresented. Its policies contain all of the promises made by the company, and are exceedingly liberal. All the advantages and privileges which can be safely granted to the insured are given by this deservedly popular and strong company.
