said of Thoreau, we believe, that he could take up any given number of lead pencils without counting. A celebrated trapper once assured us that he could tell how many balls he had in his bullet pouch, by placing his hand on it and without stopping to count them, and added: "I can tell the number of bullets instant y, without stopping, as you pronounce a word without spelling it."-Southey was accustomed to take in the substance of a book in turning the leaves full speed, and then trying to tell what ness, and will commence was in it. He once saw a man on a canal boat who was amusing himself by going from passenger to passenger and telling almast every one where he had seen him before, on such a train, in such a hotel, in such a street, giving date and place to people with whom he nad never exchanged a word. This training of the faculties in particular directions is carried to a marvelous extreme by backwoods. men, trappers, and men who guess the weight of animals. Perhaps the most remarkable instance are the markers who jump from log to log at the mouth of al boom, standing on a log and translating CHARACTER, and bought previous to the great instantly an old mark into a new one, remembering what equivalent to give for WOOLEN AND LINEN GOODS, each of a hundred marks, and chopping it upon the log in the time that it floats its length. It is said that Thoreau knew the relative order of flowering plants in the Concord woods, and knew the note of every bird, and a thousand out-of-theway things besides .- Hearth and Home.

MARK YOUR POISONS!"-So says a medical journal. Bugs and rats must be must sometimes be bought; sickness! comes, and powerful drugs are employed to resist its ravages; bottles of landanum, or innocent looking powders, are lying in drawers or upon the mantle, and This is bona fide as the business must be through their proper use, life may be saved; yet a blunder may open graves, Woodstock, Nov. 7, 1872. and fill hearts with the deepest woe !death's head and cross-bones stare every one in the face, and the word Poison in bold characters, startle the careless who may handle the deadly drug! "Mark your poisons!" They may be hidden in the words you u ter; they may be breatled in the tones of your voice; love is often blighted by their breath, and smiles and joyous hopes die under their terrible touch. The deadly virus of anger, envy or pride may course along the tones of the voice, and wither, by its fearful power, joy in the hearts of those we love. Let a mark be placed upon each selfish thought ere it poisons, with words, the happiness of home, and sends out its members in search of that happi- 20 Cases and Packages 1872.3. ness amid scenes of forbidden pleasure "Mark your poisons!" "Mark your poisons!" Were it done, how many things we handle carelessly would exhibit the fatal sign.

WHAT THE FARMER MUST KNOW .-The farmer like the business man, must know what he is doing; he must have some pretty decided ideas of what he is to accomplish-in fact, he must calculate it beforehand.

He must know his soil—that of each lot; not only the top, but the sub soil.

He must also know what grain and grasses are adapted to each. He must know when is the best time to work them, whether they need summer

He must know the condition in which ground must be when plowed, so that it be not too wet nor too dry.

He must know that some grains require ments to each Machine, which now places his Ma Nos 25 and 27 .- (Freight and Passenger Accomeearlier sowing than others, and what those grains are.

> BROOKLIN, April 5th, 1870. J. C. CHAMBERLAIN, Esq.,—Sir,—This is to certify that my wife was very low with Lung Disease. The Doctor had given her up. He said her lungs were tuberculed and medicine could not help her. As a last resort, I purchased a bottle of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. At the expiration of two days, her symptoms were decidedly better. She continued to improve so rapidly that by the time she had taken one bottle she was able to sit up.. By the continuance of the remedy she was perfectly restored to health. You may may publish the facts for the benefit of those similarly afflicted.
