There is a fresh little mound neath the willow, Where at evening I wander and weep; There is a dear vacant spot on the pillow Where a sweet little head used to sleep: There were pretty dark eyes, but they slumber, In silence beneath the dark mould, And little pet lamb of our number Has gone to that heavenly fold. Do I dream when in sleep I behold her, With a beauty so fresh and divine, When so close to my breast I enfold her, When so gently those lovely eyes glisten, That my vision is lost in my tears, And bewildered in rapture I listen To a voice from the heavenly sphere There's sadness in parlor and chamber There is silence in every room; O, I know that the father hath claimed her, Yet everything burdens with gloom; But I'll not see a comfortless morrow,
