

OVERSEERS OF POOR.
W. G. McGee, $30 00	To amount from Col. Sewell, 34 85
By expended, 34 85
Balance due Overseer, $4 21
John Babar, $31 00	To cash from G. F. Nevers, 7 12
To cash from G. F. Nevers, 7 12	" Col. Sewell, 47 54
By balance in '89, 13 75	Expanded, 85 06
Expanded, 85 06
Due Overseer, $3 82
John Byles, $81 00	To cash from W. Hay-ward, 25 00
To cash from Coll. Byles, 25 00
By expended, 86 00
Due Parish, $25 72	This account requires explanation.
BY-ROAD COMMISSIONERS.
W. H. Brittain, $10 00	To balance 73, 101 00
To amount received, 101 00
By expended, 120 02
This Commissioner reports a bal. due a party for work of $10.
Alas. Shaw, $90 00	To amount received, 90 00
To amount received, 90 00
By expended, 91 00
Bal. in hand, 0 00
C. F. Dow, $37 50	Amount received, 38 28
Amount expended, 0 78
Balance due Commissioner, 0 80
To balance 72, 0 80
COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS.
W. H. Brittain makes return.
JUSTICES.
Wm. Hayward, J. P., $82 74	To del. 73—resident, 29 50
To del. 73—resident, 29 50
By paid Overseer Byles, 61 00
Bal. of resident delinquents Mr. H. reports cannot be collected.
To resident list 74, $127 87
Non-resident list 74, 28 04
Albert Orser, $155 91	To list 74 from Coll. Sewell, $31 90
To list 74 from Coll. Sewell, $31 90
By balance 73, $27 12
By J. F. Nevers, Over 73, to $27 12
To Byles, 73, 25 00
G. E. Campbell, 73, 33 01
J. C. Gray, H.W.C. 73, 13 32
S. D. Shaw, J. P., list 73, 42 13
S. Dickinson, J. P., 73, 21 00
B. N. Richardson, J. P., 73, 21 15
Approved, A. H. HAYWARD, B. N. SHAW.
NORTHAMPTON.
To balance 73, $20 26
County warrant, 82 06
School do, 205 07
Assessor's fees, 20 00
Collector's do, 16 12
Col. Phillips, bal. 73, 3 77
By from Col. Gray, $170 31
To do Rogers, 149 80
To do W. H. Hovey, on list 73, 42 82
Non-resident tax, J. J. Fraser, 1 95
By expended, $304 97
Bal. due County, $137 71
COLLECTORS.
W. T. Gray, $214 04	To amount of list (stat- ed $215.44), 214 04
By paid Sec. Treasurer, $170 31
Non-resident tax uncol- lected, 1 95
Delinquents with G. W. Hovey, Esq., 43 18
By expended, $215 44
Sam. A. Rogers, $500 00	Due Collector, 500 00
To amount of list, 500 00
By paid Sec. Treasurer, $149 80
No returns.
OVERSEERS OF POOR.
J. A. Shaw, $49 30	To balance 73, 35 32
By expended, 35 32
Aaron Tompkins, $14 04	Balance due Parish, 14 04
To balance 73, $18 80
Received from, 2 84
No returns.
BY-ROAD COMMISSIONERS.
Joseph Wolverson, $38 00	To amount received, 38 00
By do expended, 38 00
Balance due Com. $1 80
No duplicate.
Alison Phillips, $60 30	Amount received and ex- pended, 100 30
Wm. Tompkins, $100 30	No duplicate.
Highway Commissioners.
Chas. Grant reports surveyor Allan Grant received $10, which with balance 60 cts, he has expended. He also reports in his hands, $47 00
R. H. Campbell's returns satisfactory, $210 on hand, $2 10
JUSTICES.
Geo. W. Hovey, $63 37	By paid Sec. Treasurer, 42 82
To list 73, 13 55	Cannot collect, 6 90
Costs, 6 90
To list 74, from Col. Gray, $34 13
BALANCES.
A. E. Phillips, Col. 73, $3 77	By H. Shaw, do 71, to $11 42
G. S. Davis, no returns, 0 00
W. Hale, R. C. 73, $14 12	Satisfactory. Signed, GEO. STICKNEY, F. CLIFF.
To balance 73, $125 05
County warrant, 170 04
School do, 170 04
Assessor's fees, 20 00
Collectors " 24 81
By cash from J. Riddout, J., on list 73, $28 00
By cash from Jas. Bridges, on list 73, 13 30
By cash from Jas. Bridges, on list 74, 33 74
By " " Bell, 206 20
By expended, $370 01
Bal. due Parish, $48 07
Since paid Melville, 2 30
Due County, $50 37
COLLECTORS.
Jacob Bell, $333 18	To amount of list, 333 18
By paid Sec. Treas., 333 18
Over 73, 55 05
Atwater, 25 00
By delinquents with W. B. Tompkins, Esq., 24 45
By amount cannot collect, 20 85
Bal. due Parish, $1 03
Vouchers deficient.
To balance 73, $38 22
To amount of list, 289 05
By paid Sec. Treas., 88 77
Remitted tax R. Ross, 73, 1 00
Paid Overseer Atwater, 66 55
Del. with J. Bridges, $120 00
By expended per returns, 37 00
Bal. due Parish, $39 73

By balance 73, $20 71	To From Col. Shaw, $573 40
From Col. Shaw, $573 40
Due Parish, $12 05
COLLECTORS.
D. J. Shaw, $670 40	To amount of list (stat- ed $670.40), 670 40
By paid Secretary Treas., $570 75
Overseer Colwell, 00 00
Delinquents with R. Mc- Elroy, Esq., 37 90
Tax remitted, W. L. Drier, 2 00
By expended, $670 74
Due Parish, $6 00
OVERSEERS OF POOR.
J. P. Caldwell, $17 50	To balance 73, 00 00
Cash from Col. Shaw, 00 00
By amount expended, $17 50
BALANCES.
Balance due Parish, $10 05
BY-ROAD COMMISSIONERS.
E. Harrod, $9 00	To amount received, 9 00
To do expended, 9 00
Balance due Parish, $1 20
Jas. Lipsett, $36 00	Amount received and expended, 36 00
JUSTICES.
W. L. Drier, $34 73	To list of 73, 15 02
By paid Col. Melville, 73, 15 02
Balance, $19 71
R. McElroy, 37 90	To list of 74, 37 90
BALANCES.
J. Ebbett, J. P., 73, $17 54	J. N. Moore, J. P., 73, 0 73
Approved, Signed, G. W. MELVILLE, J. H. RAYMOND.
ABERDEEN.
To County warrant, $25 04	School do, 170 04
Assessor's fees, 13 00	Collectors' fees, 10 00
Paid Parish Clerk 73, 2 00
By bal. 73, 11 88
From Col. Ronald, 231 04
By expended, $231 30
Due Parish, $12 52
COLLECTOR.
J. R. Ronald, $204 00	To amount of list (stat- ed $205.57), 204 00
By paid Sec. Treasurer, $251 04
Taxes not collected, $205 57
Due Col., $0 07
Vouchers deficient.
OVERSEERS OF POOR.
J. Young, L. Patterson & J. Gaylin, $6 31	To balance 73, 6 31
By report list expended, 6 31
BALANCES.
Balance due Parish, $6 31
BY-ROAD COMMISSIONERS.
W. T. McCain, $96 25	Amount received and expended, 96 25
Arch. Scott, 105 00	Amount received and expended, 105 00
W. H. Morehouse, 66 25	Amount received and expended, 66 25
Highway Commissioners.
W. H. Morehouse makes return showing amount received from a Union showing, $1 50
W. F. McCain reports received, 4 70	Expanded, $2 70
Balance on hand, $2 70
Arch. Scott makes a report.
BALANCES.
A. Walker, J. P., list 73, $7 00	H. H. Hobbs, list 73, 0 00
By balance 73, $97 50
County warrant, 110 20
School do, 380 24
Pd Col. Commis. bal. due 34 47
By from Col. Phillips, 539 02
" C. Summings, Esq., on list of 73, 14 79
By expended, $539 81
Due County, $54 00
COLLECTOR.
E. D. W. Phillips, $730 30	To amount of list (stat- ed), 730 30
By paid Sec. Treasurer, $639 02
Overseer Phillips, 63 87
Parish Clerk, 2 00
Error in assessment, 71 27
Resident delinquents with J. A. Phillips, 1 00
Non-resident delinquents with J. A. Phillips, 24 20
Paid Assessors and Col., 35 00
No sum stated in Assessors' vouchers—no list sent nor magistrates' vouchers.
OVERSEERS OF POOR.
C. A. Phillips, $63 87	To amount from Collector, 63 87
By amount expended, 63 87
No vouchers—returns not sworn to.
BY-ROAD COMMISSIONERS.
John Boyd, $84 00	Amount received and expended, 84 00
John Pickett, 103 50	Amount received and expended, 103 50
No vouchers.
R. K. Giberson, 50 00	Amount received and expended, 50 00
Alex. Thompson (1873), 73 00	Amount received and expended, 73 00
Highway Commissioners.
R. K. Giberson makes return showing on hand, $2 00
JUSTICES.
Simon Cummins, $40 03	To delinquent list 73, 40 03
By paid order O. Phillips, $6 00
Secretary Treasurer, 14 79
By expended, $40 03
BALANCES.
Balance, $10 84
To list 74, from Col. Phillips, $71 27
Non-resident, 24 20
By expended, $65 47
BALANCES.
R. Barker, Overseer 73, Cr. by bal., $10 40
M. L. Phillips, J. P., 72-100 27
John Giberson, J. P., '88, 25 20
S. Cummins, bal. 73, 21 80
By expended, $6 92
SAMUEL WATTS, Auditor.
Communicated.
FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL.
MR. EDITOR.—In the SENTINEL of the 12th of February, instant, I took the liberty of asking a few questions to which you very kindly at the same date gave answers, for which I receive my thanks; and here permit me to say I am not anxious for a controversy, but rather seeking the truth, or, in other words, a true construction of the scripture, which is the "word of truth," referring to this subject. In carefully examining your answers, especially the three last, the old age about "convincing one against his will," was prominently before me, and those answers not having changed the partial or imperfect I had formed, I feel bound to give you my opinion as briefly as I possibly can. My opinion is, and most candidly so, that the answer to my third question should be "Yes." To attend a conference of the Judges, Kings and Prophets denoted a nation; applied distinctly to a nationality, it distinguished the tribes of Israel from the Moabites, the Amorites and all other nations that were round about them. When members of these nations worshipped the God of Israel in Israel's land, and almost part of them, they were not called Israelites, they were known as "Strangers." Even when Christ was on the earth I fail to find that the term Israel referred to the Church or his followers; they were called "Sons of God," "Friends," "Disciples," "Saints," "Church of God," "Heirs of God," "Faithful," "Believers," "Children of God," "Brethren," and first and foremost "Christians," and nowhere "Spiritual Israel," or "Israel," meaning the Church.
Your answer to my fourth question is, "Since the Babylonian captivity the descendants of Jacob have been called Jews." This I fail to see in any way the Assyrian captivity in Israel was some one hundred and thirty-four years before the Babylonian captivity, and the Jews, who do not believe any returned from the Babylonian captivity at

We find there is a growing impression that a special meeting of the County Council will, shortly, be called to consider the bridge question. This should be. And meantime the people should talk over the matter—talk the facts influenced by reason, by a desire to do the largest amount of benefit for the whole County at the smallest amount of cost; to do what will be approved by posterity and the wisest and best local prejudices. Remember there was more truth than poetry in the statement made by a member at the late meeting of Council, that a glass of gold day would provide for the required grant. This is a fair illustration of the small tax that the proposed undertaking would involve. $1,000, or $1400 a year distributed over the property of this County, in addition to the present taxation, would hardly increase it perceptibly in each individual case, while the harm to the future interests of the County produced by a failure to carry out the present plan of the Council, cannot be estimated. We advise, with all candor and sincerity, having no interest but the good of the County in view, the people to direct their representatives Councilors to vote yes whenever again the offer of the Company is submitted for their approval.

OUR Provincial wisdom is now in session, and our best wishes are accorded for the prompt and practical discharge of the business that may come before them.

We trust that the time of the session may not be mispent in idle discussion over questions merely affecting the existence of the Government. To do the work of concern to the general well being of the Province and of interest to the general mind of the people, which members have been elected; that work should be done first. Of course it is but right that the past acts and present propositions of the Executive should be fairly and closely scrutinized, but in a capacious spirit inspired by an opinion only seeking preterment at its expense.

S. J. B. REED, S. T. M. V. C. Grand Falls, February 15, 1875.

FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL.

MR. EDITOR.—In reply to part of the communication of the 12th inst., Mr. John B. Larlee, of Perth, and for the information of all concerned: There was no one authorized by the Council at the January Session to report the debates and business of the Board for publication. It was talked of outside the Council, but no action was had thereon, nor was there any sum of money voted for or to be collected, nor included in the estimates for this year an amount of $30.00 for printing—this amount was supposed to be sufficient to provide by the Council and Regulations required for certain Parish officers.

I presume that the Council will make the necessary arrangements at the next meeting of the Council to publish the proceedings of the public, either by having them published in some newspaper or in pamphlet form.

Yours, &c.

S. J. B. REED, S. T. M. V. C. Grand Falls, February 15, 1875.

TERMS OF THE SENTINEL.

Subscription $1.50 a year in advance. Transient advertisements should be accompanied by the money to cover insertion. Short notices not exceeding 6 lines, 50 cents first insertion; 15 cents each subsequent insertion.

The Carleton Sentinel.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1875.

SENTINEL OFFICE, in Allan's Brick Building, up stairs.

WE are sorry to learn that a bill to change the law as to the punishment for murder imprisonment for life, was defeated in the Senate of the Maine Legislature. It had passed the Lower House, and its passage above was considered sure. The policy pursued in Maine for several years has been one indicating a disposition opposed to capital punishment, and we had hoped that our neighbors would presently put on its trial, a principle which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

The world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as correct, and on which it is desirable that communities and society generally should be enlightened.

THE world in its rapid advancement in the course of civilization, philanthropy and human rights, has been sluggish in its reforms of criminal laws, and while the origin under circumstances diametrically opposed, the policy has been to punish, we think that these well regarded as a principle, which we regard as