Most of the buildings are of brick, one-story high, for sheltering the choicest stock, such as Alderney cows, fine sheep, horses, poultry and game. Large enclosures surrounded by wire gauze fences both prevent the escape of hares or the ingress of dogs from without. There are several such preserves abounding in pheasants, partridges, rabbits, and perhaps other game. Herds of deer ranging in comfort and freedom, unmolested by their natural enemies, is another striking feature on the borders of that fairy farm. Perhaps the most ders of that fairy farm. Perhaps the most costly, and certainly the most extraordinary and curious exhibition within the circle of royal conveniences, is the dairy.
