NOTICE.

To Henry E. Dibblee, Charles F. K. Dibblee, and Addie Dibblee, his wife, Margaret E. C. Dibblee, Fanny Dibblee, and James Edmund Dibblee.

WILL be sold at Public Auction, on the eighteenth day of September next, at the hour of eleven of the clock in the forenoon, in front of the office of Fisher & A. B. Connell, Barristers-at-Law, in the Town of Woodstock, County of Carleton, all the right, title and interest whatsoever of the said Henry E. Dibblee, Charles F. K. Dibblee and Addie Dibblee, his wife, Margaret E. C. Dibblee, Fanny Dibblee, and James Edmund Dibblee, in and to all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the Parish of Brighton, County of Carleton, and Province of New Brunswick, granted to one Thomas Burlock, being lot number seven in the said grant, containing two hundred acres, more or less, being one hundred and ten chains of four poles each in length, and twenty chains in width, being the same land conveyed by James Ketchum and Ralph Ketchum, two of the executors of the late Richard Ketchum, to said Henry E. Dibblee, by deed bearing date the thirty-first day of October, A. D. 1857, in trust for the use and benefit of said Charles F. K. Dibblee, Margaret E. C. Dibblee, James Edmund Dibblee and Fanny Dibblee, together with the privileges and appurtenances thereto belonging.

The above sale will take place under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in an indenture of mortgage bearing date the eighteenth day of June, A. D. 1875, and made between the said Henry E. Dibblee, Charles F. K. Dibblee and Addie, his wife, Margaret E. C. Dibblee, James Edmund Dibblee and Fanny Dibblee, of the one part, and the undersigned of the other part, default having been made in payment of the money thereby secured.

Dated this 14th day of June, A. D. 1876.

Miscellaneous.

A' Body's Like to be Married.

As Jenny sat down wi' her wheel by the fire,
An' thought o' the time that was fast flying by'er
She said to hersel' wi' a heavy heart sigh,
Oh! a' body's like to be married but me.

My youthful companions are a' worn awa',
And though I've had wooers mysel' ane or twa;
Yet a lad to my mind I ne'er could yet see,
Oh! a' body's like to be married but me.

There's Lowrie, the lawyer, would ha'e me fu' fain,
Wha has baith a house an'a yard o' his ain;
But before I'd gang to it I rather wad dee,
A wee stumpin' body! he'll never get me.

There's Dickey, my cousin, frae Lunnun cam' down,
Wi' fine yellow buskins that dazzled the town;
But, puir deevil, he got ne'er a blink o' my e'e,
Oh! a' body's like to be married but me.

But I saw a lad by yon saughie burn side,
Wha weel wad deserve ony queen for his bride,
Gin I had my will soon his ain I would be,
Oh a' bod 's like to be married but me.

I gied him a look, as a kind lassie should,
My frien's if they kenn'd it would surely run wud;
For tho' bonnie and guid, he's no worth a bawbee,
Oh! a' body's like to be married but me.

'Tis hard to tak' shelter behint a laigh dyke,
'Tis hard for to tak' ane we never can like,
'Tis hard for to leave ane we fain wad be wi'
Yet it is harder that a' should be married but me.

SPORTS OF THE KITCHEN.—Yesterday morning a Burlington lady who lives out on the West Hill, was moved, by reading the "City Lyric" on the subject, to go down into the cellar and see how the mixture was. She did not go down, however, for the water was there before her and had been there all night, and had driven the rats out to higher ground, like the poor people in Happy Hollow. She had not more than opened the door when a great rat sprang between her dress and pet---oh---ur---oh---skirt. The next instant the lady had him in her nervous grasp, holding dress, skirt and rat with a desperate grip, despite the wriggling and squirming of the rodent. And back into the kitchen she went, and the matinee opened. The lady is a good church member, has never taken a lesson in dancing in her life, but she waltzed across the kitchen and galloped through the sitting-room and polka-ed down the hall and scottished back into the dining-room and reeled back into the kitchen, where she jigged and shuffled and pirrouted, never missing a step and furnishing her own music all the time, while her sister and three children ran after her shrieking and wailing for help, under the impression that she had gone mad, and beseeching her to tell what was the matter. She told them at last, when the orchestra was out of breath, and when she told them they all shrieked in chorus and ran out of the room, but returned, climbed up on the table, and begged her to turn the rat loose. Perish the thought she said. In all her wild dance, while striving to quiet her nerves, she had clung to the rat. It had caused her too much fright to escape now. A council of war determined that the best way to kill the rat was to put him in a bag and pound or drown him. The lady ordered the galleries cleared, and then with many shrieks and trembling but determined hands, she emptied the rat into the bag that her sister had given her, and called in the family. When the house was again in session the rat was chased into a corner of the bag, the lady who had captured it put her foot on the bag to keep him in his place, and her sister, poising the heavy poker over the rat, took good aim, raised the poker high above her head, shut her eyes and averted her head so that she might not see the carnage, and then, summoning all her strength, struck the deadly blow. A loud piercing scream that curdled the blood with the intensity of its agony followed the blow, and as the executioner opened her eyes she beheld the unfortunate rat-catcher at the other end of the room, seated on the floor, swaying to and fro, nursing her bruised and beaten foot, while the rat greatly frightened by the noise, ran out of the bag, jumped on the baby's head and scared it into convulsions leaped from the baby on to the table, flopped into a crock of butter, scrambled through a pan of milk, jumped off the table on to the window-sill, and ran under the house to conceal its emotion.—Burlington Hawkeye.

A DISTRESSED AGRICULTURIST.—A Western paper tells a story of a distressed agriculturist: A farmer dropped in here on Wednesday last to pay his rent, putting on a long face to correspond with the times. On entering the house he told the landlord that, times being so bad, he could not raise the money at all and dashed a bundle of greenbacks on the table.

"There," said he, "that is all that I can pay."

The money was taken up and counted by the landlord, who said:

"Why, this is twice as much as you owe!"

"Dang me! give it me again," said the farmer. "I am dashed if I ain't took it out of the wrong pocket!"

A PARTNERSHIP ON EQUAL AND EQUITABLE TERMS.—German—who has transferred his talents and industry to British seaport—meets his friend, native of the country, on the street. Friend---"Hilloa! you here; what have you been doing this age?" German---"Nossin, nossin." "Ah! nothing; that's not like you. What are you thinking of!" "I'm thinkin of one partership." "A partnership; very good. And what do you put in?" "Oh! capidal---nossin." "You put in no capidal? Eh?" "No; de oder party have de capidal and I give de experience." "I see, I see but how will that work?" "Ver well. It be limited to three years and den we part; he have got de experience, and I have got---de capidal?"---Aberdeen Free Press.

"Bathe every day!" exclaimed the widow Smashpipes, as she dropped the flat-iron upon the horseshoe, and looked her neighbor Snubs right in the eye. "Why, you don't say so! I never used to think of stripping my Jeems, and giving him a right good wash, but four times a year; onst in the Spring, onst in the Summer, onst in the Fall, and onst in the winter. Howsomdever, some children ketch dirt sooner than others."

"Quick" Wit!---Young Smith: "Rather sudden that about Jones, isn't? Died at six o'clock this morning." Old Brown; "Good gracious, you don't say so! Why, I met him only last night, and---and---and he was alive then!"

"I specs, my beluved hearers," said a colored parson, "I specs, to-day to take a broad field in my 'scourse. It takes me a good while to git away from the dock, but when I once strike de deep water, den look out fur de big fish."

He was too solemn a preacher: he didn't suit in Nevada. The chairman of the farewell committee expressed it well; said he, "Now you can git, pard; we ain't agin religion out here, and it riles us to see a feller spilin' it. Git."

MANHOOD:
How LOST, How RESTORED!

JUST published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two post stamps.
