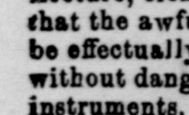
A Lecture to Young Men.



Just Published, in a sealed Envelope. Price six cents.

A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness or Spermatorrhœa, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two post stamps.

To Francis R. Connor, of the City of Saint John, in the Province of New Brunswick, Engineer, and Louisa Matilda, his wife:

TAKE notice that by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain indenture of mortgage made between you the said Francis R. Connor, of the City of Saint John, in the Province of New Brunswick, and Louisa Matilda, your wife, of the one part, and the undersigned Hiram B. White, of the City of Saint John, in the Province of New Brunswick, merchant, of the other part, bearing date the second day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and recorded in Book N, No. 2 of Records, on pages 663, 664 and 665, in and for the County of Carleton, I, the said Hiram B. White, will on the first day of August next, at the Exchange Hotel, Woodstock, in the County of Carleton, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, sell by Public Auction the mortgaged lands and premises in the said indenture of mortgage, described as follows: "All that certain piece or parcel of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Parish of Woodstock, in the County of Carleton, and Province of New Brunswick, bounded and described as follows, to-wit: beginning at a stake standing on the western bank of a certain Berdeau, at the intersection of a division surveyed by Deputy Hartley, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, parallel to the south side line of the J. M. Connell farm (so called), distant eleven chains and twenty-five links at right angles in a southerly direction; thence westerly along said parallel division line to the centre of the Meduxnakik Stream; thence down along the centre of the said Meduxnakik Stream until it comes opposite the eastern point of Dibblee's Interval; thence to the said eastern point of said Dibblee's Interval, at the mouth of the aforesaid Berdeau, to the place of beginning, containing twenty-seven and five-eights acres, more or less." Together with all and singular the buildings, erections and improvements therein, and the right, members, privileges and appurtenances to the said lot of land belonging or in any wise appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues and profits thereof. Also, all the estate, right, title, interest, dower, right of dower, property, claim and demand of every nature and kind whatsoever, either at law or in equity of them, the said Francis R. Connor and Louisa Matilda, his wife, of, on, to, or out of the said lot of land and premises with the appurtenances and every part thereof.

The above sale will be made for default of payment of the principal money and interest secured by the said mortgage.

Dated at the City of Saint John, in the Province of New Brunswick, this twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1876.

Miscellaneous.

A CENTURY'S PROGRESS.—The people of the United States are now engaged in celebrating the hundredth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. It is justly regarded by them as an occasion for congratulation and joy. The progress made by the nation during the first century of its history in the social arts, in the development of trade, in the education of the people, and in other essential requisites of greatness and success, may well extort a feeling of pride. A small amount of self-glorification may be forgiven, especially as Americans generally now admit the fact that they do not concentrate within themselves all the wisdom and enterprise, all the valor and wealth of the world.

A few figures may indicate in a brief space this extraordinary advancement. In 1776 the population was estimated at 2,750,000; it now amounts to 44,675,000. The area of land then possessed reached only 800,000 square miles; it now covers a surface of 3,603,844 square miles. The estimated value of the manufactures of the country in 1776 was $20,000,000; it is now $4,200,000,000. In domestic and foreign commerce there has been a stride from a few hundred thousand dollars' worth at the commencement of the century to at least about $700,000,000 worth each in imports and exports. In 1776 there were no mining operations; there is now an annual yield from the different mines which have been opened of at least $1,000,000,000. There was not a single bank in the colonies in 1776: there are now more than 6,000, with a capital of $500,000,000. There were no railways in 1776; the country is now threaded by a net work of at least 74,658 miles of railway. The first canal was not built until about 1790; and now there are more than 10,000 miles of canal in operation. As against nothing in 1776 there are now 80,000 miles of telegraph wire in use, over which are conveyed annually 14,000,000 messages. In 1776 there were only 9 colleges in the colonies; in 1876 there are about 500 in all. There were but few public schools at the commencement of the century; now there is the organization of a most complete public school system, which is worked at an annual cost of $75,000,000. In this centennial year there are belonging to the different religious denominations not less than 65,000 buildings for religious worship, with sitting accommodation for 25,000,000 people, whilst the aggregate value of the property owned by the churches is at least $400,000,000. In 1776 there were only 40 printing presses in the country; now they surpass calculation; whilst the number of public libraries is 165,000, with an aggregate of 50,000,000 volumes, and an annual circulation of newspapers and periodicals of more than 1,600,000,000.—S. A. Journal.

An account of a strange suicide which was lately committed at Foo-Chow-Foo, is given in the China Mail. It seems that a young lady, an inhabitant of that city, who had the misfortune to be left a widow while yet in her teens, was urged by some injudicious relatives to enter again into the bonds of wedlock. The thought thus suggested of supplying the place of her late husband was so repugnant to her feelings that, in order to escape from the persecution of her advisers, she determined to "ascend to heaven on the back of a stork," or, in other words, publicly to commit suicide. Having arrived at this determination, a day was fixed for the ceremony. Early on the fatal morning the lady, dressed as the Queen of Heaven, and surrounded by a large following of admiring relatives and friends, started from her late husband's house in an open sedan chair for the scene of her self-inflicted death. By the way she visited her parents, to bid them farewell, and stopped occasionally en route to taste the viands which were placed at intervals by the side of the road, as at a funeral. On arriving at an open space at the back of the Hai-chaou Temple, she mounted on a scaffolding which had been erected for the purpose, and, having bowed to the vast crowd which had assembled to witness the proceedings, she cried with a loud voice, "Heaven and earth! and my friends! I am quite satisfied to die in this manner." Having said this, she stepped on to a chair on the platform, and thrust her head through the noose of a red cord, which hung suspended from a cross-beam above her. At the same moment a red cloth was placed over her head and face, and then, without the least hesitation, she jumped off the chair. Death was almost instantaneous, and she expired without the least apparent struggle. Unfortunately, the effects of this young lady's self-devotion did not end with her life, for so deep an impression did her conduct make on some boys who had witnessed the spectacle, that they amused themselves on the following day making believe follow her example. By a misadventure, while one of them was adjusting the rope around his neck, his playmates ran off and on their return they found that he likewise had "ascended to heaven on the back of a stork."

A WISCONSIN MAN UNCONSCIOUSLY SAWS HIS BODY OPEN.—One of the most shocking accidents which we have ever been called upon to record occurred at the mill of Todd, Haven & Co., in the East Division, about eleven o'clock yesterday morning. At that hour David Pascal Spafford, one of the oldest and highly respected residents of the East Division, stepped into the mill on business and sat down, without thinking of the danger, on the table of one of the butting or cut-off saws. It is proper to state that, owing to the necessity of economizing space in the mill mentioned, the saw under or in the table upon which Mr. Spafford seated himself is worked by an improved lever which raises half the saw simultaneously (if necessary) above the surface of the table, throws it into gear, and works it at the rate of 3,000 revolutions a minute. In a few moments after he had seated himself his foot accidentally came in contact with the lever, raising the saw, it is presumed, until it touched his person, and then springing forward to escape from the sudden and fearful danger, he rested the entire weight of one foot on the lever, throwing the swiftly revolving saw upward and cutting himself through the back, so that one of his legs and hips were almost severed from the body. Of course no surgery could prove effective in such case, and death came to the unfortunate man's relief in a very few moments after the accident occurred. The mangled body was conveyed to his home as speedily as practicable, and the grief of his sorrowing household was as intense as it was sudden in its appearance.

THE WHIMS OF ABDUL AZIZ.—Three days after the failure of the Government to pay the interest on its obligations he made his chief eunuch a present of 500,000 francs, but ordered the sum paid from the public treasury. At one time he amused himself in his harem for days at a time, then went to building palaces, then passed agreeable hours in counting over his gold. At one time he took it into his head to have some wild beasts, and wanted some tigers. Agents were sent off at once. Fearing to causing His Majesty some discontent, they sent off emissaries in every direction, with orders to purchase without delay, and the result was the arrival of fifty superb tigers at about the same time. But no sooner had they arrived than the Sultan concluded that lions were better suited to his palaces; the tigers were exiled in Asia, and the agents were once more sent out to purchase lions. Fifty of these beasts arrived, but after looking at them two or three times His Majesty had a fancy for parrots. As soon as this was known all the merchants in Constantinople ordered parrots, and in the end the city was filled with them. The cargoes that arrived too late were sold in the shops—over 100,000 of them. It was the Minister of Finance who had to pay the bills for all these fancies, and this will show why Turkey is bankrupt. All this time the Sultan was piling up his private hoards.—New York Times.

On the 1st of January last year there were, according to a parliamentary return just issued, in the several union workhouses of England and Wales 54,088 men, 47,370 women, and 44,634 children. Of these 52,968 men, 46,360 women, and 43,000 children were in English, and 1,120 men, 1,110 women, and 1,604 children in Welsh workhouses. Of the total number 43,634 men, 36,391 women, and 35,592 children belonged to the church of England, while 10,275 men, 10,835 women, and 8,996 children belonged to other religious communities. Of all the counties in England and Wales, Middlesex claimed the largest number of paupers at the date mentioned, and Rutland the smallest, the numbers being—for Middlesex, 9,626 men, 11,234 women, 7,678 children; for Rutland, 66 men, 33 women, and 42 children.

Brigham Young is the father of sixty-three children, forty-five of whom are living. More than half of these are females, and with but two or three exceptions, all are blondes, and none beautiful. The youngest is a girl, about six years old, daughter of Amelia Van Cott, the fourteenth wife.
