Mr. King, who had taken up the greater part of the hour and a half alloted to the opposition had his points admirably turned against himself by the inimitable Cartwright. King had represented his own and Mr. Tillev's position in the meeting between Messrs. Mackenzie and Cartwright, as being between the "upper and nether millstones. Mr. Cartwright thought more bran than flour would In the same way King had spoken of a pro-Goliath challenging an unprotected man, and the answer was of course, a free trade David, that brought down the house in an out burst of applause. At a former meeting Mr. Tilley had complained of the present government disproportionately increasing the poor man's rum as against the costlier liquors. Cart wright effectively coupled this with Mr. Tilley's votes for the flour duty, and asked what they thought of Mr. Tilley's policy of . cheap rum and dear flour," this point took effec immensely. With the tariff and the loan questions, the fiscal policy of the present and the late governments, Mr. Cartwright dealt in a way that is admitted on all hands as exceedingly luminous and able. Indeed, the Opposition were surprised and the ministerialists proportionately gratified at the Finance Minister's splendid vindication of his position, and masterly exposition of the fisca policy of the ministry. In all respects his speech was a great one and it was eviden throughout his pretty severe treatment of Mr. Tilley that he was greatly restraining himself, and deserved credit, as a perfect master of sarcasm for the restraint which in view of Mr. Tilley's many good personal qualities

he had imposed upon himself. At a meeting held some timo ago here, Mr. Boyd had inveighed against Mr. Mackenzie for not having giving an illuminated clock to the St. John post office, and alleged that the Post office was burned because the hole which the clock would have stopped was left open, ed clocks all over Ontario. Mr. Mackenzie's reply was pointed. There is not an illuminated clock on any government building in Ontario, the reason being the danger of fire

FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL. MR. EDITOR,-At the present time, when from various parts of the County you learn the opinions of the people respecting the state of affairs politically, I have thought it not amiss you should know about how a large majority of the voters feel up here. In the first place we are free from some of the influences that hang over some other sections of the County. We are independent compared with our position some years ago; very few mortgages or other securities intimidate us; the old lumber scores are wiped out, and we live principally by our farms, and breathe the pure air of freedom from debt, and feel satisfied that when we raise such a surplus as will require a better market than we have a present, such market will be open to us; and when we can raise more wheat than is needed to bread the Province, we will receive all the Protection necessary; and not until then do we see any necessity for a duty upon directly opposite Post Office, up stairs.
