And so she worked in the sweet sunshine. Singing, as glad as a bird in May, "Barbary Allen," the live long day. She often glanced at the far-off town.

And the sweet song died of a strange disease, Leaving a phantom taste of cheese And an appetite and a nameless ache For soda-water and ginger cake.

And wondered if eggs were up or down.

The Judge rede slowly into view, Stopped his horse in the shade and threw His fine-cut out, while the blushing Maud Wondered much what kind he chawed. He was dry as a fish," he said with a wink, And kind o' thought that a good square

Would break him up," so the cup was filled about the time of your return?" With the crystal wine the old spring spilled. And she gave it him with a sunburnt hand; "Thanks," said the Judge in accent bland. " A thousand thanks, for a sweeter draught From a fairer hand"—and then he laughed. And the sweet girl stood in the sun that day And raked the Judge instead of the hay.

Accidentally Innocent.

No lawyer likes going into court wit a thoroughly bad case, yet how can I I should have more patience with the question. "Do you ever think it righ to defend a man whom you believe to be guilty?" Were it less frequently put by people who spend six days of the week seeking to get the upper hand of their neighbors, and the seventh, in trying to circumvent their Maker. To the honest inquirer, I commend the answer Dr. Johnson once gave to Boswell, "sir, the lawyer is not the Judge.'

Was it my place, when George Gil bert's little care-worn wife came with tears glistening in her eyes, to beseech me to do what I could for her imprisoned husband, virtually to turn my back, and leave her tired, troubled heart to break or not as it might? I was neither a priest nor a Levite to find a ready excuse for passing by on the other side. Yet what could I do? THE BOTTOM DROPS OUT OF AN EDITOR'S FARM.—An incident occurred at Bow Park farm (of the Hon. George Brown, of the Toronto Globe), about four miles from this city, a few days since, which created quite an excitement in the neighborhood. When darkness settled down over the scene the evening before, there were no signs of what occurred during the silent watches of the night. The river wound gracefully along and the road eading to the homestead was as firm as a rock. In the night one of the employes heard a deep rumbling sound. in the morning he told what he had experienced, and declared he had heard the shock of an earthquake. The mystery was soon solved, for on proceeding along the roadway a sight which struck amazement into every witness, was revealed. An acre or more of the earth had sunk nearly forty feet, and the tips of he trees were just visible on the level with the surface. The earth on the side of the chasm is quite perpendicular, and the query is, where has the acre of land gone to? It Grasshoppers are doing fearful damage in is not a land slide, but a complete disappearance Some think that it is caused by a quicksand bottom, and others that the river had wes'red a strata out beneath. Whatever the cause, the occurrence is a startling one in our staid and tranquil neighborhood.
