VEGETINE.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Dec. 18, 1878. H. R. STEVENS, BOSTON: About nine and a half years ago I had a fever; the doctor gave me some poisonous medicine, drove the disease into my leg, and it broke out. and has been from two to ten running sores ever Let me fold you again to my bosomsince. I could not sleep a fourth of a night once in six months, and a great many nights was compelled to get up and take opium - a piece as large as a pea—to deaden the pain. I have tried every-thing I could hear of, in fact, I have paid out hundreds of dollars and found no relief until I Near N. B. Railway Station and Steam-boat Landing, commenced taking Vegetine, and now I can go to bed at eight o'clock at night and sleep until Woodstock, N.B. seven o'clock in the morning, and no occasion to waken from pain. I was used up, perfectly dead inwardly and trequently when I would get up, would be dizzy, and have to put my hand on something to keep from falling; but since I commenced taking Vegetine it has all disappeared, and I feel like a new man. My honest conviction is that it will cure my leg entirely from the pre-sent looks and feelings. I shall continue taking Vegetine and recommend it to all whom I come

Before and After Marriage. My Maggie! my beautiful darling! Creep into my arms, my sweet! So close I can hear your heart beat.

What! these little fingers been sewing?

One's prickled by the needle, I see!

When once they are given to me.

These hands shall be kept from such labor

All mine, litttle pet I will shield you From trouble and labor and care; will robe you like some fairy princess, And jewels shall gleam in your hair. Those slippers you gave me are perfect That dressing-gown fits to a T! My darling! I wonder that Heaven Should give such a treasure to me.

Eight-nine-ten-eleven! My precious, Time flieth when I am with you! It seems but a moment I've been here, And now-must I say it? Adieu!

Go sit in the rocker, I pray; Your weight seems a hundred and ninety When you plump down in that sort of way. You had better be mending my coat sleeve-I've spoken about it before-And I want to finish this novel. And look over those bills from the store.

This dressing-gown sets like the d-l, Those slippers run down at the heel Strange nothing can ever look decent ; I wish you could know how they feel What's this bill from Green? Why, surely, It's not another new dress! Look here, I'll be bankrupt before New Year, Or your store bills will have to grow less.

Eight o'clock! Meg, sew on this button As soon as you finish this sleeve. Heigh-ho! I'm so deuced sleepy-I'll pile off to bed, I believe.

GIRDLING GRAPE-VINES .- Says a corres pondent of the Scientific American :-The girdling of a grape-vine has a very marked influence on the fruit; it causes it to grow much larger, to ripen sooner, and makes it of better flavor. Girdling consists in taking a rim of bark about one-fourth or one-sixth of an inch wide from the trunk or branches of the vine. Some recommend tak-ing this rim of bark from the main stem, others from the side canes. A vine does not grow, as may appear at first sight, from the bottom upward, but from the top downward. The roots take from the soil what moisture the plant needs; also the mineral matter .-This crude or undigested food or sap is carried to the leaves, not through the bark, but through the entire wood of the vine. When it reaches the leaves, it comes in contact with the carbon absorbed from the atmosphere by the leaves; here it is digested, and is now ready to be used by the vine in making new growth in what is called the cambium region, and is deposited in the form of
