A TRIP TO MOUNT KATAHDIN MR. EDITOR, - A pers in standing on almost any high land in this County and looking west will see the peak of Mount Katabdin towering above all others, and on a clear day it piesents a beautiful appearance. This mountain is as near in the centre of the State of Maine as it is possible for it to be. It is in Piscataquis County and a distance from here, in a straight line, about eighty miles. Having had for a long time a desire to visit this mountain and finding a leisure season, a short time ago, I determined to make the trip. So one fine morning, in the middle of August, in company with friend B., we left Woodstock with horse and carriage and took our way towards Houlton. Passing through this town, we take the road through Limerick and Siny rna and follow it until we strike the Aroostook road, turning down this road we go on as far as Island Falls, here we stop during the night. Early next morning we take the road again and a drive of two hours brings us to the village of Sherman ; another mile and one half brings us to Boynton's Tavern. Here we leave the Aroostook road and turn in towards the east branch of the Penobscot, four miles of this road are very good ; and when we reach the end of it we are on the verge of civilization. Let me to a puncheon, and they lying so close tobuilt of the roughest kind of Corduroy, and prove beneficial, says :--
