FACES.

The human face is not only "the index of the soul." Every bodily sensation leaves its indelible trace upon the features. Every human face, if studied attentively, reveals the physical and mental history of its possessor. On the The miser with his features drawn as tightly as the openings of his money bags; the debauchee with his sensual, semi-animal face; the young man with the future fair and broad before him, every line of his counterance, received. every line of his countenance revealing energy and ambition; the maiden's face bright with innocent love and hope,—each of these face-hisnocent love and hope,—each of these face-histories is as legible as the printed page before you. But there are other faces in which we may read sad histories—faces of work-weary women, to whom living has become an irksome task. The fatal alphabet of disease is written in every line of their countenances. Why will these women suffer from debility and those painful diseases and weaknesses peculiar to their sex, losing besides the charm and beauty of a bright, healthful face, when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure and effectual remedy? Ladies who have is a sure and effectual remedy? Ladies who have used it pronounce it to be woman's elixir of health. Sold by druggists.

Our personal appearance is a matter in which our friends and acquaintances have a right to a choice whether we shall inflict upon them an exterior uncared for and unattractive, a countenance marred by a neglected grizzled beard, or a crown guiltless of covering, half covered or thatched with white hairs, or whether we shall indeference to our fellows pay due regard to our carleton County!

"Pulmonary Consumption arises from a de-cline or deficiency of vitality in the natural biop-lasm or germinal matter, and this deficiency lasm or germinal matter, and this deficiency manifests itself not only in a general wasting or atrophy of the whole body, but also in a peculiar degradation, chiefly in the lungs and lymphatic system, of portions of this bioplasm into a sluggish, low-lived, yet proliferating matter, which instead of maintaining the nutrition and integrity of the tissues (which is the natural office of bioplasm) clogs them, and irritates them with a substance which is more or less prone to decay, and eventually involves them also in its own disintegration and destruction."

To remedy this deficiency by sustaining the vitality of the bioplasm, and thus providing for the general building up of the whole system, is the office and design of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime.
