furs and numerous other articles. A funny thing occurred at a church in Bath, Me., last week. At the evening service the usher mistook a genial sea captain for the clergyman, and giving him some notices to read, conducted him up the aisle to the pulpit. The captain did not clearly understand what the notices were, but took them and put them in his pocket to be read at his leisure, and he thought that he was merely being conducted to a seat. The congregation laughed out; but the matter was set rigth when the minister did arrive.

There is no apparent indication of an improvement in the trade of Britain. In the principal manufacturing districts other mills have been stopped or put upon short time, and still further reductions have been made and still further reductions have been made in the wages of the employes. The result is a state of very general destitution and distress. Yet the municipal authorities of several of the towns have reported to the Government that they are able to cope with the difficulty by purely local effort.

Lille, Belgium, recommended abstention from giving or attending hunting or fishing parties on Sunday, and avoidance of Sunday travelling except in case of necessity. The Congress also considered the decline of religious art. The report read on this subject says:—"Religious imagery has ceased to be a craft; it has become a trade. OUR FACES. The human face is not only "the index of the soul." Every bodily sensation leaves its indellible impress upon the features. Every human face, if studied attentively, reveals the physical and mental history of its possessor. On the crowded street of the city, what volumes of these histories are open to all who would search them! The miser with his features drawn as tightly as the mouths of his money bags; the debauchee with his sensual, semi-animal face, the young man with the future fair and broad before him, every line of his countenance revealing energy man with the future fair and broad before him, every line of his countenance revealing energy and ambition; the maiden's free bright face with innocent love and hope,—each of these face-histories is as legible as the printed page before you. But there are other faces in which we may read sad histories—faces of work-weary women to whom living has become an irksome burden. The fatal alphabet of disease is written upon every line of their countenances. Why will these women suffer from those painful diseases and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, losing besides the charm and beauty of a bright, beautiful face, when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure and effectual remedy? Ladies who have used it pronounce it to be woman's elixir of health. Sold by druggists.

The Vitalizing Nutritive-Tonic qualities of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime, would indicate its great value as a restorative and invigorator, in that low condition of the System vigorator, in that low condition of the System prevailing in patients recovering from Diphtheria as well as Fevers, especially those of a Typhoid character; while, if taken when the premonitory signs of lessitude and weakness appear it would have a tendency to prevent the attack, or lighten and shorten its duration. The cases in which it has been used fully bear out this hypothesis. It stimulates the enfeebled powers, and builds up and gives fresh life and vitality to the whole system. Prepared solely by J. H. DIED.

Death has been here and bore away This loved one from our side; Just in the morning of her day, So fair and young she died. We never more shall see her face, Nor hear her voice again; There is none to us can fill her place, Nor be what she hath been Amidst her young friends all around We miss her coming feet, And in the old accustomed place There is a vacant seat. Her memory shall be dear to us As long as life shall last, When we think on the happy hours In days that are gone and past.

She was a true and constant friend,
A gentle, kind and tender heart;
Hew sad the thought that love must end, That friends so dear must part. Then let us dry each falling tear, And look where God doth reign; For on that bright and shining shore Dear Clara we will meet again.

Dearest Clara thou hast left us, And thy loss we deeply feel; But 'tis God that hast bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal. And thou art withered, lovely flower, Just in the morning of thy bloom; Thy fragrance lasted but an hour,

A blossom only for the tomb. Plucked by the ruthless hand of death,
From off a fostering parent stem,
When thou exhaled thy fragrant breath,
A gem dropt from earth's diadem.

One thought shall check the starting tear. It is, that thou art free.
