Miscellaneous.

FOOLING WITH A QUAKER.—He was a eaceable-looking man, with a quiet-looking horse attached to an unattractive sleigh, with unostentatious bells. He wore a wide-rimmed hat and shad-bellied coat, as he drove easily down the South Eastern hill, journeying from Bucks county to the land of Northampton. He was observed by a fellow of the species rough, whom much loafing had made impudent, and who lifted up his yawp: "Sa-a-a-y! hat where are you going with that man?"

"Verily, I journey beyond the river, friend," mildly responded the Quaker, 'and thither goeth my hat also." "Hold up and take a fellow along, can't you?" called the man of wrath. "Nay, friend, my business and inclination forbid it."

"I'll soon fix that," and the fool ran forward and jumped on the runner. "Verily, friend, if thee insists upon getting into my vehicle I will even help thee," and the man of peace reached out a right hand as resistless as an ovster dredge. It caught the youth around the throat worse than a fourteen-year-old diphtheria, jerked him into the sleigh, mentioned in the said Mortgage, to wit:—"All that certain piece or parcel of land, situate in the Parish of Wakefield, County and Province

Finally he got a kick that lifted him clear the Sixth Tier Road, and extending Eastward-ly the full width of the said lot to the Fifth Tier W. F. Dibblee & Soll. over the side of the sleigh and ran his head into the bank by the roadside, where he dwindled down in a heap like a gum shoe discouraged by a street car, and murmured as he rubbed his ensanguined nose in the snow:

"Who'n blazes'd a ever thought the cast-iron man'd gone around with steam up an' disguised as a blamed old Quaker.

BURDETTE'S NIGHT THOUGHTS .- Don't judge a man hy his clothes. Can you tell what the circus is going to be like by looking at the Italian sunset pictures on the fence. Do you value a turkey for its plumage? And isn't the skin of the mink the most, and, indeed, the only valuable part of him? There be men, fair to look upon, who wander up and down this country, and sit in the coolest places on the hotel piazzas, who are arrayed in fine linen and cardinal socks, and who have to hold their hand over their scarf pin when they want to see the moonlight, who, unassisted and unprompted, do not possesss the discretion to come in when it rains, and don't know enough to punch a hole in the snow with an umbrella-new, soft snow at that, without any crust on it. Now and then, son, before you are as old as Methuselah you will meet a man that wears a hat that is worth twice as much as the head it covers. On the other hand, don't fall GROCERIES! FALL AND WINTER into the error of believing that all the goodness, and honesty, and intelligence in the world goes about in shreds and patches. We have seen a tramp dressed in more rags than you could rake out of the family rag-bag, and more dirt and hair on him than would suffice to protect a horse, who would step up to the front door and demand three kinds of cake, half a pie, and then steal every moveable thing in the yard, kill the dog, choke up the pump with sand, tramp on the pansy bed and girdle the cherry trees because he couldn't carry them away. Good clothes or bad are never an infallible index to a man that is in them. WEATHER WISDOM .- "Gem'len," said he President. "I fink dat de inhabitants of dis kentry am payin altogether too much 'tenshun to dis weather queshred-headed, one-hoss white man-ebery broken-down old two-cent darky, has got de ideah in his head dat de Lawd am Singer Machine." See what Physicians and the People say about it. An independent minister, as much distinguished for his eccentricity as his piety, dined one day with the senior deacon of his church. The deacon, who was in the habit of asking blessings of a most wearisome length was particularly prolix and paused to gain a new supply of MESSES. SCOTT & BOWNE:

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion, and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.
