OFFICIAL NOTICE.—All communications relating to Constitutional questions, must be addressed to James Watt, G. W. C. T., Woodstock, N. B.

All Resolutions, Orders and Returns, must be addressed to A. W. D. KNAPP, G. W. S., Sackville, Westmorland Co., N. B.

A. W. D. KNAPP, G. W. S., Secretary.

It is wonderful nature that human nature, with all its endowments of native intellect; with reasoning powers so acute as to enable man to judge most critically as to cause and effect, should exhibit such marvellous inconsistency and war so fatally with itself.—Were it an insult to say that man's animal being is stronger than his intellectual and controls it? And still is not such a proposition correct? Look around and notice that in many, if not in a majority of instances, the intellectual is subordinate to the animal, it may be in some cases almost unconsciously on the part of the subject. Men who know full well that the true standard of manhood is the demonstration of the mental powers, and who appear to appreciate and glory in the mind's superior prerogative, yield themselves up slaves to those passions which, while they destroy, are repugnant to the higher faculties.

The world has grown aged since the principles of total abstinence were first enunciated and the terrible sin of intemperance first cast its blot upon society. History sacred and profane; history written, history legendary, the history of observation, all unite in teaching one lesson, that indulgence in intoxicating liquors, ardent, develops a still more consuming fire of passion that ends in the ruin of the individual. Beyond a certain point, to which every single indulgence leads, strength of will is uncertain and strength of constitution no barrier against the fatal termination. The noble and ignoble, the strong and weak, the great debased—in a word, humanity a wreck—the consequences are the same. The evidence of what intemperance does, the testimony in favor of abstinence, and still there is the slightest word or the more demonstrative opposition to those who would stop the evil. And still human nature in its inconsistency reveals itself the ruin of its own suicidal folly, refuses the rescue offered, persists in its own admitted degradation. Oh strength, oh weakness, how art thou exasperated in this strange compound we call human nature!

It is of the utmost importance that with the approaching winter all Temperance organizations should re-open the campaign with vigor and enthusiasm. Because there is a law, and because that law is being made to serve its purpose, may not be accepted as a reason for abating in one iota the old time zeal. Upon the maintenance, in its heartiest demonstrations, of the spirit and sentiment and principle through which the law was obtained, depends the continuance of the law, and more especially depends its efficacy. A law that has few earnest friends soon becomes a law of the letter; but a law which is at once the expression and the tool of a respectable public opinion will gain in power. Therefore public sentiment must be kept at the sticking point; more than ever it is imperatively necessary that in these organizations the young should be taught to love the principles of temperance and appreciate the laws of which full soon they, if it be continued, must be the administrators.

It is to be hoped that the coming winter will be one marked by much activity among temperance people, so that higher and more valuable ground may be occupied.

A WHILE ago, when liquor was sold on this side of the line without let or hindrance, a strong sympathy was felt for Temperance friends on the American side who, while fighting their own temperance battle, had to contend against the influence of Canadian rum, dispensed at bars just over the border. Now things are changed, if we are rightly informed, and while by law the sale is prohibited on the Canadian borders our American friends are enjoying the advantages of pretty free liquor, and our people who want what they cannot get at home have only to go over and there obtain the needed as they please.

We hope the information is exaggerated; it would be cause for regret if the somewhat similar laws in force on each side may not be strictly enforced and the corresponding advantages be enjoyed.

The friends of Temperance in Northumberland did not rally as they should at the election in that County on the Temperance Act. It was carried, however, by a majority. The opposition did better than at any previous election, ten Parishes giving a majority against the Act. The total figures were, for 836, against 602. Majority in favor, 234. Not half the electors voted.

Among the notions of motion to be made at the provincial synod or the Episcopal Church, at Montreal, in this—
Mr. T. White, M. P., will move, seconded by the Rev. Canon Carmichael, that this Synod of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada, in recognition with gratitude the marked success of the Church of England Temperance Society in England, and while rejoicing at the increase of total abstinence societies in connection with the Church in this country commends the movement to the cordial support of the Clergy and Laity throughout the province.

The Brewers' Association of the United States represents $350,000,000 capital, and its members annually pay the government $1,000,000. Thirty-five million of hops and 35,000,000 bushels of barley were used last year by the 2,710 brewers of the United States. The number of breweries in Germany have decreased nearly 3,000 from 1872 to 1877. The total annual German production of beer averages 2,270 gallons for each man, woman and child. The English, last year, consumed 324 gallons per head of population, the Americans (U. S.), 500 gallons, the Russians but 80 gallons. The world's annual production of beer, in clothing eighteen countries, is estimated to be 3,000,000,000 gallons in Europe and 4,000,000,000 gallons in the United States.

There are some constitutions that, having freely indulged, no longer their own masters. The simplest indulgence is fatal to their strongest resolutions to refrain from their besting sin. Drink is a good servant, but a bad master. We have it on the authority of one who knows the subject only too well, that when in what is called the "brother's" room, where the doctor, the drunkard, if full glasses were put before him, one of poison and the other whiskey, and told he might have one if he dared, take his chance, he would take one and run the risk! Talk of slavery!

The old superstition that grog is a good thing for men before, during, or after a march has been proved by the "scientific" march of all nations to be a fallacy, and is only maintained by men who mistake the craving solely from habit as the promptings of nature.—St. Garret Wolsey.

At a meeting on the 9th inst. of the Ayr Branch of the British Women's Temperance Association and Prayer Union the Marchioness of Ayles, Hon. Mrs. Ayles, presided, and her subject was the claim of work on woman, and her ladyship was listened to throughout with undivided attention.
