As to increase of expenditure, the Dominion in 1867-8 had an expenditure of $11,-486,000; in 1878 9 the expenditure had increased to $24 455,000. How had this happened? It happened because of increase in provincial subsidies; interest on the Inter-Buckwheat Flour, Potatoes, Cheese. Cash paid colonial; interest of public works, light houses, fisheries, North West Indians, -cost of Government of British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba,-new Provin ces added to the Dominion since Confederation-and increase in other items, making altogether the sum of $10,104,190, leaving

As for the increase in the debt: In 1867 the nett debt was $75,700,000; in 1873 in was $99,000,000, showing an increase of $24,-120,000. The causes of this increase were, 1st, paid out for Intercolonial, $14.500.000; which they will sell at extremely low prices for pay down, in order to close their present business then took up the increase of debt from 1873 to 1879, and showed that it had been really necessary from the engagements entered into by the Mackenzie Government. As for the railway expenditure, Sanford Fleming had calculated that the total cost of the Canada Pacific, from Lake Superior to the Pacific Ocean, would be $60,000,000. The Government proposed to spend ten millions this year from England and ten millions next year, and each year after five millions, thus completing FALL AND WINTER the road in ten years. Sir John had shown last evening in what way it was arranged to recoup the older Provinces for the advances they made in order to open up the Great North West. The conclusion was that while we had increased our debt, it had been increased because of valuable public works, such as the Intercolonial. It had been increased by the readjustment of the debt between Ontario and Quebec, which was really only taking our money out of one pocket and putting it in another. It had been increased Who have CASH to pay for their by loaning of money required to open up the North West-money which the Government had arranged, by its land policy, should be returned to the older Provinces, thus reducing that portion of the debt to a transient loan for a great purpose. As the fifth and last head of his remarks-The results of the Tariff-he remarked that the increase of taxation because of the new SPOONS, ETC. the increase of the action of the series of t and in Quebec 27 cents increase, while in New Brunswick the result had been to actually decrease the amount raised from Customs and Excise by $1 40 per head. He then referred to the petition forwarded from St John, asking for a reduction of duties on tea, sugar, flour, meal, coal and other articles. It was signed by about the same number of persons as voted against him at the last general election. Many of the signatures were those of non-voters, while in others there was a similarity of handwriting. He then dwelt upon the gratifying testimony that poured in upon him from all quarters, showing that the genius of Protection had been visiting the cities of the land, and pointing out here an industry and there an industry in which the National Policy prompted the people to engage as a means of making money, affording employment for both capital and labor, by making ourselves our own manufacturers and keeping the money within our own borders.
