

COMMUNICATED.
FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL.
Mr. Editor.—How long will the people of Carleton County be behind those of York in their efforts to abate the liquor nuisance? With the law that we now have on our statute, it ought to be no time thing to see a drunken man. Such, however, is not the case in this vicinity, it being quite common to see the effects of run in our quiet villages. When we take into consideration the number of temperance orators who reside here, and the undoubted temperance principles of our villagers, it is a matter for surprise and wonder that such a state of things is allowed to exist. Previous to the adoption of the Canada Temperance Act, some of our prominent business men and mechanics represented themselves as being anxious to have the rum business stopped and the rum banished from our midst, but since the way and means have been provided for the suppression of the rum traffic their sentiments seem to have undergone a change. People who formerly spoke in strong terms against the sale of intoxicating liquor in our village, are now singularly silent on the subject, notwithstanding the fact that there is just as much sold as before the Canada Temperance Act became an established law. What is the reason for the change? It is because the Confederation has done for them; what united Canada to-day is as compared with what was in 1867, and the relative advantages and disadvantages that its history thus far has developed. A comparison of notes by those who are fully satisfied and those who have been disappointed might result, at least, in deciding an average, on the whole, satisfactory to all, and in stirring up the minds of people to a clearer appreciation of their responsibilities as to the future, which is largely dependent upon the way in which they discharge their duties. There is in the theme ample scope for the orator, as it is a theme on which the public mind should be kept informed, and in no way can that mind be so thoroughly influenced as through the words of the orator.

THE CARLETON SENTINEL.
SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1880.
SENTINEL OFFICE, in Brick Building, directly opposite Post Office, up stairs.

A Correspondent, last week, gave some particulars respecting the property recently transferred to an American Company, and from this transaction, which involves the re-orientation of the destroyed or dilapidated works at Upper Woodstock, established originally by the York and Carleton Mining Co., and the prosecution, on a scale of grand magnitude than ever before, of the business of making pig iron at the old site of the stock of ore on the lands included in the transfer, many people have a faith that had become weak revived as to the future prospects of Woodstock. It is but due to the gentlemen, named by our correspondent, who have made use of the property, to say that the public should be grateful to them for having, by the liberality of the price asked for the land, secured only $8-000—bought purchasers, rather than continuing to hold it unimproved.

We think there is good reason for believing that, through the influence of foreign capital, a new era is about to be inaugurated in the history of this part of the County. This Town, like many others, has long time been waiting "for something to turn up." With ample resources in the way of land and elements that nature provides as conditions to success in manufacturing, this County, so far as the developing of manufacturing industries is concerned, has had to depend mainly upon the energy of a few individuals of more pluck than wealth, and these have manfully done their best, in most instances, necessarily, in a comparatively small way, under very cramped conditions, and to deserve and win success. Very few indeed of our people, who have the means, have shown any disposition to take advantage of those favorable circumstances which render this Town well adapted to be a great manufacturing center. While our own men of means have hesitated to embark in enterprises as manufacturers, we must, while regretting that fact, give a hearty welcome to those capitalists from abroad who have seen and appreciate the advantages and inducements here offered, and come among us to prove, to their own benefit and ours, that the County has the elements from which, applied energy and tact and money, may evolve a grand manufacturing success. We are quite sure that all our people will show themselves to be hearty in extending every assistance for the most complete success of these gentlemen who, while they primarily come here to help themselves, cannot do so without helping the whole body of our people.

There are other enterprises talked of as likely to be entered upon in this vicinity, and some gentlemen have, we are told, been recently to ascertain whether they could obtain suitable sites for the prosecution of certain branches of industry contemplated. This fact should be borne in mind that, whether as regards corporations or individuals, it pays to be liberal with strangers who come desiring to embark in bona fide manufacturing enterprise. To meet such in a grasping, "get all you can" spirit, is a means very often of driving them away. A man who holds property for sale, should know that the benefit he derives in the shape of purchase money is only part of a great gain that comes from property being improved, and this being so as regards ordinary transfers, the benefits are enlarged in every direction when the property is sold for the establishment of a large factory.

SPRING MEASURES are excited over the result of the recent boat race at Providence, R. I. It appears to have been a very spirited contest, but was especially notable for the result. Wallace Ross, of St. John, whose star has lately been very much obscured, and whose misfortunes or crooked doings at aquatic contests had rendered him somewhat obnoxious to his former friends, has suddenly emerged into fresh popularity by new victories now mentioned, and is now winning the race boat beating Hanlan, the renowned champion of two continents. And now the name of the river is freely used reproachfully, or in terms questionable of his honesty. He claims that he was seized with pangs that disqualified him, but many think he was fairly beaten, while others hold that his defeat was a victory over him, submitted to in the interest of letting him at his future contests.

A Telegram from Ottawa to St. John papers says: The Government have at the recent Royal Commission determined to issue a Pacific Railway bill in its original form. The bill is drawn from a defective draft, and there was no one in the house but the widow and her two daughters, and before the neighbors could be alarmed and reach the spot the fire had become unmanageable. The loss is about $1000, with no insurance. The loss comprises all the widow's earthly possessions, and this, with her dependent condition, makes her the object of sympathy to her neighbors.

For some days a rumor has been current in the city to the effect that the Grand Trunk Railway authorities are engaged in negotiations having for their object the control, by lease or purchase, of the Maine Central, the Magalloway and the Washington Southern for the purpose of establishing a terminus for their road at St. John.
This rumor seems very improbable, although no doubt important to the railway control are likely to occur this year.

An Ottawa paper gives as a "startling political rumor" that Hon. A. Mackenzie will soon become a member of the Dominion Government. The rumor is more startling than true, no doubt.
