WOODSTUCK IN FLAMDS AGAIN Fifty Houses Destroyed! Estimated Loss $10,000!

As we go to press this (Friday) morning, called the "Colorado mineral casket." a considerable portion of the Town is in ruins—smoking cinders and ashes, and the steps in his father's house, on Thursday, and unsightly debris of a terrible conflagration being all that remains to mark where last evening were the abodes of happy homes.—
A fearful nig has passed—a night of wind,

Mr. John Marshall, Sen., is confined to his bed through a severe illness. of excitement, of fire.

At a little before 1 o'clock this morning, an alarm of fire was given, and it was discovered that the "Mechanics' Institute," when the means of quenching the fire was obtained, it was found too late to save that building, and unfortunately owing to the lack of sufficient hose, the water from the steamer white was placed at the creek, could not be effectively applied to the two immediately adjoining buildings—one on the south ately adjoining buildings—one on the south owned and occupied as a dwelling by W. F. Dibblee, Esq., the other east, a new and fine building just being completed, owned by B. H. Smith, Esq., and they shared the fate of the Institute and were destroyed; Mr. Dibthe Institute and Mr. Di blee with difficulty getting the bulk of his furniture, &c., removed. Meanwhile while yet sleepy citizens were hurrying to this point, a fresh alarm came from the upper part of the Town, and now it was found that flames were making rapid headway in the barn in rear of the residence headway in the barn in rear of the residence.

The flames made quired No family should be without them. rapid work of the out-buildings and soon attacked Mr. Jones' dwelling house. The wind was blowing a gale; the Engines and most of the people were for distant at the same made ample packages 10 cents. of the people were far distant at the other serious confligration was imminent. The two buildings north, between Mr. Jones' and Orange street, owned by Mr. Skillen and Mr. Woodstock, Nov. 11, 1881.—46. Orange street, owned by Mr. Skillen and Mr. Connors, respectively, were speedily in flames, which crossing Main street swept with fury down both sides of that street and east fury down both sides of that street and east of W. The whole of the town down to the creek citizens that the progress of the fire was stayed. And it was difficult to secure concerted action by citizens who felt each that his own property was in danger and needed watching, owing to the fact that the wind was carrying huge burning cinders in every direction, and to long distances; and to anther alarming fact, that it seemed pretty ortain that not only had some incording.

F direction, and to long distances; and to another alarming fact, that it seemed pretty certain that not only had some incendiary started the fires in the beginning, but that he or they were still plying their unholy work and applying the torch at different points. At the N. B. & C. Railway depot, at a gentleman's residence at the northern end of the town, and in out buildings in the track of the fire, such villainous attempts were made. Happily a great conflagration ended without its becoming greater.

The following are the names of those who The most Reliable, Dursuffered by this fire. In every instance where the dwelling house was burned, all the out-buildings were destroyed. It is also to be noticed that while the destruction here by our last great fire was largely in the business centre, on this occasion it was chiefly dwel-lings and churches that were consumed. Thus the number of houses, including the Churches and Institute, is fifty, and the value of the property destroyed may, at a rough estimate, be put at $70,000 We have only this is all the information we can obtain in the confusion of the moment. The loss in personal property, apart from the buildings, will chiefly be from damage sustained in reremoval, as generally speaking the household goods were saved from fire. And we are glad to believe that no personal injury was sustained by any one. There is no doubt that on this occasion the steamer proved herself a good investment but for her effectiveness under the prompt management prese men in charge, this great conflagration uld have been infinitely
