The Lucky Ticket. When I was about eighteen years of age I was employed in a country shop .-

I had a hard, laborious boyhood, and got an education, such as it was, only by a desperate struggle. My first essay in the business world was in this shop, where I was employed by an old skinflint, and where I worked harder for one year than in any subsequent year of my life. I not only sold goods, but I did work about the house of my employer, and still managed to find a little time, by

SAVE THE EYES.—Looking into the fire is very injurious to the eyes, particularly a coal fire. The stimulus of light and heat united soon destroys the eyes. Looking at molten iron will soon destroy the sight. Reading in the twilight is injurious to the eyes, as they are obliged to make great exertion. Reading or sewing with a side light injures the eyes, as both eyes should be exposed to an equal degree of light. The reason is, an equal degree of light. The reason is, the sympathy between the eyes is so ing, a house occupied by Mr. William only interpreted his discretion of putting the great, that if the pupil of one is dilated by being kept partially in the shade, the year old daughter escaped, but Mrs. Sloan, ended at the manifest wish of a large management by being kept partially in the shade, . the one that is most exposed cannot contract itself sufficiently for protection, and will ultimately be injured. Those who wish o preserve their sight should preserve their general health by correct habits to and give their eyes just work enough, with a due degree of light.
