RICKERS, the fireman injured in the recent railway collision near Fairville, died Thursday morning. He leaves a wife and five young children. Much sympathy is expressed by the public, not only for the family of the deceased but, as well, for conductor Brown, whose forgetfulness has placed him in such an unhappy position-one that he TN sums of $380.00, $400.00 and $500.00. Most readers will be surprised by the startling revelations made in a paper by E. S. Atwater, entitled "The Wheat Fields of the Northwest." entitled "The Wheat Fields of the Northwest."

According to this writer's estimate, Lord Beaconsfield was not an untrustworthy prophet when, in 1879, he predicted that supremacy as a grain-growing country would soon be attained by Canada. The statements made in Mr. Atwater's article will command universal attention, from the importance of the subject.

The Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay Street, N. Y., are promptly issuing their reprints of the British Reviews for July. The Edinburgh Review, just out, will be found a very valuable number. We can only briefly note the principal contents. The first paper gives an interesting account of the organization, belief, and results of "Methodism." which it considers one of the great bulwarks of the faith among the middle classes in England. Then follows a paper on "Cæsar's Campaigns in Britain." "Sweeden under Gustavus III." treats of some important passages in the consti-Britain." "Sweeden under Gustavus III." treats of some important passages in the constitutional history of Sweden, as illustrated by the recent investigations of French writers. "The Society of Antiquaries" gives an account of the origin of the Society, of its struggles for life, what it has prepared to do, and what it has accomplished. "Japan Revolutioned" is a review of books by Sir E. J. Reed and Miss Bird, with many quotations. "The Revised Version of the New Testament" treats of the various translations by thereto made, explains the plan of the tions hitherto made, explains the plan of the last one, and makes a large number of minute criticisms, expressing, on the whole, disappoint-

The Westminister Review has also appeared from the same press. Every one will turn to the carefully written article "George Eliot: Her Life and Writings." The Sunday Magazine.—The number for September affords pleasant, instructive, entertaining and edifying reading—not for Sunday only, but for every day in the week. The periodical is religious in fone and sentiment, but sectarianism is strictly avoided, and all sects, and all classes of readers will peruse its pages with pleasure and profit. The leading article is entitled "American Benefactors," by James Laurence Bowdoin, Lt. B. It has thirteen illustrations, with portraits of William B. Astor, H. H. Warner, Prof. Lewis Swift, Daniel Drew, etc., etc. "The Wallachians," with ten illustrations; "Maritius," with five illustrations; and "The Christian Church at Washington, D. C.," are particularly noteworthy articles. Mrs. Robert O'Reilly concludes her highly interesting serial, "Out of the World"; there are short stories and sketches by M. V. Denison and other popular writers, and some admirable essays by W. C. Protor, Marcus Dods, D. D., Rev. Dr. Deems, etc., etc. The poems are of far more than ordinary merit, and several of them are beautifully illustrated. The miscellany is abundant, and contains a vast amount of information and entertainment. The illustrations is abundant, and contains a vast amount of information and entertainment.
