Vegetine

SCROFULA.

Scrofulous Humor.

Vegetine will eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humor.
It has permanently cured thousands in Boston and vicinity who had been long and painful sufferers.

Cancer, Cancerous Humor.

The inveterate effect of VEGETINE in case of Cancer with Cancerous Humor challenges the most profound attention of the medical faculty, many of whom are prescribing VEGETINE to their patients.

Cancer.

VEGETINE has never failed to cure the most incurable Cancer.

Morbid Diseases.

The VEGETINE is a powerful medicine in the cure of this class of diseases.

Salt Rheum.

Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, &c., will certainly yield to the great remedial effects of VEGETINE.

Erysipelas.

VEGETINE has never failed to cure the most incurable Erysipelas.

Pimples and Humors on the Face.

Reasons should teach us that a blotchy, rough or pimply skin depends entirely upon an internal cause, and no outward application can ever cure the defect. VEGETINE is the great blood purifier.

Tumors, Ulcers or Old Sores.

These are caused by an impure state of the blood, and are cured by the blood purifying effects of VEGETINE and these complaints will disappear.

Cataract.

For this complaint the substantial benefit can be obtained through the blood. VEGETINE is the great blood purifier.

Constipation.

VEGETINE does not act as a cathartic to debilitate the bowels, but cleanses all the organs, enabling each to perform the functions devolved upon it.

Dyspepsia.

It VEGETINE is taken regularly, according to directions, certain and speedy cure will follow it.

Faintness at the Stomach.

VEGETINE is not only a blood purifier, but creates a healthy appetite, and a gentle tonic, which assists nature to restore the stomach to a healthy action.

Female Weakness.

VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretory organs and always with beneficial results.

General Debility.

In this complaint the great effects of the VE-GETINE are realized immediately after a course of the medicine. It creates a healthy appetite, and a gentle tonic, which assists nature to restore the stomach to a healthy action.

IN A GRAVEYARD.

"Here rests in God." 'Tis all we read:
The mould'ring stone reveals no more.
In God! Of other words what need?
These span the broad, eternal shore.

O'erlaid with his stony blooms,
A Jesus both consoled the mound,
Neglected in the place of tombs,
With spicy, golden sweetness crowned.

And deep within its leafy breast
Some faithful bird has sought a home,
The tiny brood within the nest,
Fearless and free to go and come.

A holy quietude is here,
Save where the happy bird's song
Breaks through the stillness, pure and clear,
And echoes the dark life among.

Sleep on, sleep on, thou peaceful heart,
From every troubled thought refrain,
Forgotten every earthly pain.

Sleep on, thy long repose is sweet,
O'erlaid with thy hazy sod.
O'erlaid with thy hazy sod,
Step softly here—

FOUND!

Three years amid the ice—fields of ice—Mountains of ice—nothing but ice—Nothing but ice, ice, ice! Three such years of dreary monotony, to one computing time by his feelings, outmeasure any other.

No wonder they took me, a mere fledgling, as surgeon of that exploring trip. An older man, or one having the barest living practice, would have declined to take the job. But a youth, with only a single suit and a medical degree, belongs to the class who have no right to be choosers, and must take what offers.

Six months of darkness alternating with six months of murky daylight, quite as careworn, brought none of those pleasant changes which elsewhere mark the recurrence of time and seasons.

It was with a thrill of joy that I saw the ship turned homeward. We were welcome—month after month we had struggled against the ice, and now we were reaching our native land.

"And now for Emily Croden!" I ejaculated mentally, when we had given the last look to the ice, and were scudding briskly southward with a fair wind and under a full press of canvas.

Emily Croden was the girl I had left behind me, and with whom I had exchanged vows of love a long time ago.

My father and I had parted on our way to marry her, but we had fallen down myself or her; and as I thought of the happiness in store, I wished the white sails were wings!

At last I was home. I stopped to make no inquiry. I would trust another to give news of Emily; I would go directly to herself. I was sure of finding her just as I had left her; for I knew there would be no change in Emily Croden.

I had a sudden chill as Joshua Pen-throp met me at the door. He was Emily's step-father, and a man I had never liked. Always morose and somber, he looked more so than ever now, as he greeted me with an air as if that of a stranger.

"Where is Emily?" I asked, starting to burst past him in my eagerness.

"Miss Croden has been dead for a year," he answered, in cold, measured tones, and then closed the door in my face.

I staggered and fell back, and then the steps, but that my hand instinctively clutched the railing. Stunned and stupefied at the cruel tidings so cruelly communicated, I staggered along the street till an old friend met me and took me to his house.

There I learned the whole story. Emily had died a year ago, and I had never known it. I had been so busy with my work, and so full of my own thoughts, that I had never had time to inquire
after her.

The blow was too much for the poor, mother, who sank under it. Mr.
Penthrop reached home barely in time to see her passing away. He was so busy with his work, and so full of his own thoughts, that he had never had time to inquire after her.

Two years ago, I had been so busy with my work, and so full of my own thoughts,
that I had never had time to inquire
after her.

Two years ago, I had been so busy with
that I had never had time to inquire
after her.
