G. W. Secretary is very gratifying to notice that in St. Jeno there is being exhibited a real live activity by the Temperance friends, and the cause is being advocated with a heartiness and persistency that makes the promise of success, at the polls, when the vote is taken Maltine with Peptones. on the Temperance Act, appear bright .-All the other Counties await the action of St. John with intense interest. The business heart of the Province, an influence extends therefrom that greatly accelerates or greatly retards movements such as the Temperance reform. St. John, having the law in practical force, will be St. John leading the communities onward and upward to successive victories. As St. John to day is the centre from which goes out the supplies for the traffic in intoxicants all over the Province, then she will be the centre and central influence of the reform operating on the just lines of moral and legal suasion.

WE cannot answer the question, still we would ask if in our Provincial communities there is as much zeal and fire and activity being displayed this winter as has been usual RASHIONABLE PLUSHES—White, Black, Navy, Seal, Sky, Sapphire, Old Gold, New at that season in other years with regard to Cardinal, Maroon the temperance movement? We rather fear VELVETEENS Plain and Striped, Black and there is a lack of enthusiasm being manifested. And why? We can't say; but this we can say, that it is not because there is iny less necessity than there has been; not because in perance pot bearing fruit of its wonted char ster; not because the claims of a distressed humanity are not constantly presented. Nor should it be because the law is nominally in force in many communities. The law is in force, but it will not be forceable unless by agitation the tone of public sentiment is maintained at a high standard on the question and the law is reared to effect by a popular sympathy and direction. It is no time to sleep ; Lodges should be alive and to work in the great vineyard of society, keeping the truth of the matter strongly portrayed continually before the public view.

St. Stephen is an incorporated town; has its own Council, its own revenues, and etill the Gounty Council would in effect deprive the town of regulating its own moral and social interrsts.

What a fury of anger would be excited in Woodstock did our County Council venture upon an act so gravely discourteous, if not gravely illegal !

RUM MADE FROM OLD SHOES!—In the casterly and parallel with the north line of the whole lot owned by Lewis Coombes thirty-six feet, or to the wharf built upon the west side of puties, some singular industries were brought the road leading to the Ferry Landing; thence to light. It was found, for instance, that some use was made of old shoes, but exactly whole lot; thence westerly along the said Coombes' what use was hard to find out. Large numwhat use was hard to find out. Large numbers of old shoes were sold by rag pickers to certain men who disposed of them at a good price. It is well known that bits of old learning the make the commercial article known as ther make the commercial article known as the price of the same belonging and the privileges to the same belonging. ther make the commercial article known as the manufacture it, and the new call for old shoes was facture it, and the new call for old shoes was william McDonald, facture it, and the new call for old shoes was evidently for some other purpose. In New York city and Brooklyn about three million pairs of old shoes are thrown away every year. Formerly old shoes were plentiful in the gutters of certain neighborhoods; now it appears that they are sought after as choice prizes in the rag-picker's line. By dint of persevering enquiry, it was discovered that the old shoes was used for three purposes. First, all shoes not completly worn out are patched, greased, and after being otherwise regenerated sold to men who deal in such wares. Some persons wear one shoe much more than the other; these dealers find maies for shoes whose original mates are past hope. Secondly, the shoes not worth patching up are cut into pieces; the good bits are used for patching other shoes and the worthless bits, the soles and cracked "uppers," are converted into Jamaica rum by a process known only to the manufacturers. It is said that they are boiled in pure spirits, and allowed to stand for a few weeks, the product far surpassing the Jamaica rum made with essence, burnt sugar and spirits, A gentleman who doubted the truth of this story stopped recently at a low grog shop in the neighborhood of the factory spoken of and enquired if they had any rum from old shoes.
"No," said the bar keeper, "we don't keep it much now; the druggists, who want spare article, all sell it, and the price has gone up. But we have had it, and we can get you some if you want it." How many
