Bristol Items. Since Bristol was last reported through your columns, it has improved much, and is ast becoming a place of importance. During the spring and summer four dwelling houses have been erected and are progressing towards completion. A shocshop has been erected and is being run by James Mead, satisfactorily turning out first-class work; the shoemaking business is also carried on by

The steam mill creeted by R. D. Pearson, Eq., is proving a great convenience indeed the third boiler is on the ground, and is to be set at once and then they will have power enough to run the rotary, edger, trimmer, shingle machine and other machinery, and then there will be a hum.

We have also added to the improvements a wire ferry, which is certainly a very great improvement on the old scull and push sys-

The man Hayward, who was so unfortun ate as to lose his arm in the mill here, doing well, under the careful and skillful treatment of Dr. Atkinson. He is improving rapidly and is in excellent spirits. I do not know that I can afford you any more items at this time; there are things purpose to notice at some future date. By the way, I came near forgetting, we are anticipating the County Lodge of the U T. A., to meet with us in September, and we want all the Lodges to be on the look out for the notice and respond. 20 gallons of Oysters ordered for the Horse 20 gallons of Oysters ordered for the Horse Races, to come off on Wednesday, September Society will held an Exhibition at Jackson-

THE London Law Journal says on the sub jest of married women and property :-The ineapacity of a married woman to be which she lives with her husband is due to the fact that, except to the very limited extent allowed by the Married Women's Property act, a wife is still unable to hold property without the intervention of Trustees. The is well watered and is situated about 21 miles below owners of a house settled to the wife's separate use are, in contemplation of law, not the wife nor the husband, but the Trastees, who allow the husband and wife to live in it. The effect of this permission is to constitute the husband le al occupier. Such occupation as the wife has is, in law, the occupation of the husband; and, although the Trustees hold for her, yet when, with their sanction, she and her husband live in the house, the effect i her. The wife is thus excluded from offices | MESSRS. LANDRY & CO. have been apthe same as if the Trustees were strangers to for which rating is a qualification, but under some circumstances the parish might seriously be embarrassed. The husband being the rate-payer, the wife's furniture cannot be seized for the rates, although it is in the house seized for the rates, although it is in the house rated; so that if the husband has no property. the only way open to the parish of enforcing the rates is to put the husband in jail until
