LETTER FROM MONTANA.

Deer Lodge Valley,

all in a letter to the SENTINEL. Mentana lies adjacent to the British line, has an area of 92,000,000 acres, and has a population of only 40,000. It is divided by the main range of the Rocky Mountains into what is known as Eastern and Western Montana—the former being drained by the waters of the Missouri River and the latter by the waters of the Columbia. This vast area of land, almost five times as large as the State of Maine, is covered with very nutritious grasses, upon which formerly roamed, in countless numbers, buffalo, elk, antelope and deer. Here was the general rendezvous and hunting ground of all the different Indian tribes of the North Westsome coming as far as from Oregon and Washington Territory for their yearly supment or member of a Government ought to counts, and when a balance is asked for it branded, and this cost is reckoned at 75 cts.
