And this was in- creased on hearing of his departure for India, where he would remain for five years or more. Her father guessed the cause of Guy Wilford's departure. He knew the man's noble nature, and that it was Helen he loved, not her money; but he said nothing when she told him all about it. Helen was more brilliant than ever that season; notwithstanding which she was always possessed of a dissatisfied feeling, which seemed to mar all pleasure. She could not define it. She at first tried company as a remedy, but she soon	der whose protection their trade, handi- craft, accidental occupation. or national- ity was supposed to lie. But in olden days curses were very nearly akin to oaths, and, indeed, constituted the major part of those invocations of the super- natural powers which have been left on historical record. The attempt of Balak to curse the Israelites by means of Ba- laam is an instance of this. In the "Electra" of Sophocles, the "Ninth Iliad" of Homer, and the "Orestes" of Euripides we find families, and even hostile cities cursed in the most elabor-	wealth but in subtracting men's desires. Wordly riches, like nuts, tear men's clothing in getting them, spoil men,s teeth in cracking them, but fill no belly in eating them. "Some people," says Alphonse Kerr, "are always finding fault with nature for putting thorns on roses; I always thank nature for putting roses on thorns." Flowers sweeten the air, rejoice the eye, link us with nature and innocence, and are something to love.	internal and external remedy ever discovered. It ought to be kept in every house. The Church of England is devoting much attention to waifs and strays in London streets. It has been determined, at a meet- ing held at the Mansion house, to establish homes in connection with the Church of England for boys and girls. It was stated that a beginning had been made, and that about $100,000 would be required for its full development. On motion of the Earl of Aberdeen resolutions passed in favor of the plan. If farmers and others continue to buy dust and ashes put up in big packs and sold for condition powders it won't be our fault. We have expos- ed the swindle time and again. Sheridan's	sene. Stir frequently. Sprinkle the rose bushes with it as soon as the insects begin their work. The great and inestimable service done to the farmer, gardener, and florist, by the birds, is only becoming known by sad experi- ence. Spare the birds, and save your fruit; the little corn and fruit taken by them is more than compensated by the vast quantities of noxious insects destroyed. If you have a garden, do not throw away the soapsuds from the laundry; keep it to use as a fertilizer for your flower beds. The cost of a recent foggy day in Lon-
