FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL. Gravitation System is better and cheaper than the Direct Pumping. The object of water ing this purpose is the best.

The Direct Pumping will supply purer water from a surer source, and will be more No. 1 and brook water No. 3, and which says "the Direct Pumping system is not only the cheapest but the most useful and efficient," of pumping the use of steam fire engines is committee of the whole may obtain. dispensed with." Now, will the Press say why Gravitation is best, as it has yet given no reasons. Which system is cheapest? cost more than the other will about meet such expenses: will, in fact, do more than $2,000 a year, including repairs. How can from either, it is not necessary to refer to it. The Press in making its wonderful calculations gives Gravitation the benefit of full income after the bonds are paid in reduction of other system after its bonds are paid by adding expenses of running and only deduct ing net income. Why not apply the same rule to both? This accounts for the blunder. I would like to criticise the Press' alone in 40 years? Provision is only made for assessing paoperty for balance of interest dice in favor of one system of water supply over another. Admitting that the gravitation system is the original and most natural system, is to recognize at once a reason why it is popular with many. It is a system that undoubtedly, under favorable circumstances, presents many advantages, but it is not often the case that such favorable circumstances exist, and that very fact it is that has led to the invention and introduction of the direct pumping and reservoir system. And it has seldom occurred of recent years that communities seeking to secure a supply of water have adopted the gravitation system. our case there appears to be but one available source of supply from whence to secure water by gravitation, and respecting the fullness and reliability of that source it is safe to say, at least, that grave doubts exist.
