SOLITUDE. Laugh, and the world laughs with you: Weep, and you weep alone, For the pad old earth must borrow its mirt But has troubles enough of its own. Sing and the bills will answer; Sigh, it is lost on the air; The echoes bound to a joyful sound, But shrink from voicing care.

Rejoice, and men will seek you; Grieve, and they turn and go, The want full measure of all your pleasure, But they do not heed your woe. Be glad, and your friends are many; Be sad, and you lose them a'l; There are none to decline your nectared wine, But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast, and your hales are crowded; Fast, and the world goes by; Succeed and give, and it helps you live, But no man can help you die. There is room in the halls of pleasure For a large and lordly train, But one by one we must all file on Through the narrow aisle of pain.

LETTER FROM MEXICO.

A VISIT TO JALAPA. The route is divided into two branches. One branch traverses the heights of Chiqu. huite and Maltrata mountains, and unites Vera Cruz with Orizaba, Cordova and Mexico, and over this route formerly all transportation of goods was carried on until a shore time since, when a horse car road was open-ed, and traversed the coast for a short dis-

The journey is one of great pleasure; not only is the scenery beautiful, composed or nearly all tropical growths, mountains, etc., but there are many places of historic notoriety. The trains for Jalapa leave Vera Cruz every morning at 5 a. m.; only 20 miles are travelled by steam, the remainder of the journey is made by the means of the Tram Way a distance of about 57 miles. The small cars are drawn by six mules (each car), and a change of mules is made six times be-The mountain scenery is grand, as are the
