NEW KINCARDINE AGRICULTURAL SCCIETY. -This Society held its annual Show on Friday, 12th inst., and, like all former cahibitions held at this settlement, was a complete success. Although it is only about ten years since the first large number of people came from Scotland and took up their residence among the hills and valleys of New Kincardine, it is allowed by all that few if any can show such fine cattle, sheep, etc., er roots and vegetables of such wonderful size and quality. At the great exhibition at St. John, although only a few found it convenient to send articles such a distance, yet a few of the members of this society did do so and took six or seven prizes. A small section of the Kintore district at that exhibition carried off two first and one second prize. We cannot enumerate the many excellent roductions at the Show worthy of notice, but will merely mention that Mr. Findlay, of Upper Kintore, who gained the first prize for Aberdeen yellow turnips at the St. John exhibition, showed three different sorts of tur-The largest man in the English service is nips of the largest size and finest quality Lieut, Southerland, of the Fifty sixth Regi- taking therefor first prizes in each class.
