FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL. MESSRS. EDITORS,-Will you sford me space to say a word or two on that public question, the discussion of which in the SENTINEL, we all have been watching with so much interest for the past few weeks.

Your impartiality on most public questions, has, I am afraid deserted you on this occasion, and you have fallen pretty heavily on the town side of the fence.

In your leading article, March 24th, I found this sentence, "We don't purpose to quibble or encourage quibbling in others." The object you have set yourself in this discussion is to convince the people of the County that the taxation necessary on the construction of new County buildings in the Town, will not be onerous, that money can be cheaply obtained and insurance light. On the 24th of March you say "In fact 6 per cent. is a higher rate of interest than probably the County would have to pay; men who have money in bank only drawing them three per cent. would gladly change the investment into County bonds, even if they could get but one A large elm tree at Norwich, Conn., has per cent. more."
