KING'S EVIL
Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its more or less frequent developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tuberous Syphilis, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Pustular Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, &c. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and all the various dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.
SCROFULA

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effective, and so easy to take, that it has become the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of constitution, and mercury. At the same time it cures the skin, restores the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs, and rejuvenating the entire system. This great
Regenerative Medicine
Is composed of the genuine Hemlock Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillicia, and other ingredients of great power, purity, and economy. It is compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as a
Absolute Cure
For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which its effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

Poetry.
A True Story.
"Where is the baby, grandmamma?"
The sweet young mother calls
From her seat in the cozy kitchen,
With its dainty white-washed walls.
And grandmamma leaves her knitting
And looks for her all around,
But not a trace of baby dear
Can anywhere be found.
No sound of the merry prattle,
No gleam of its sunny hair,
No patter of tiny footsteps,
No sign of its tiny fair.
All through house and garden,
Far out into the field,
They search and seek and corner,
But nothing is revealed.
And the mother's face grew pallid;
Grandmamma's eyes grew dim;
The father's eye bathed village,
No one to look for him.
And the baby lay? "Where's Rover?"
The mother chanced to think
Of the old well, the old corner,
Where the cattle used to drink.
"Rover!" Where's Rover? I know he'd find her!
In vain they call,
Then hurry away to the orchard,
And there by the moss grown wall,
Close to the well, the old corner,
Hiding in baby's dress,
She was leaning over the well's edge
In perfect loneliness!
She stretched her little arms adown,
But Rover saw her first,
And never seemed to mind the kink
The tiny bare feet cast
So spitefully upon him,
But wagged his tail instead,
To greet the frightened searers,
Who naughtily baby said:
"There's a 'tittle girl in the 'ater';
She's as wet as an eel;
Mamma, I want to help her out,
And take her home to tea,
But Rover, he won't let me go,
And I don't love him. Go
Away you naughty Rover!
Oh! why are you crying so?"
The mother kissed her, saying:
"My darling, understand;
Good Rover saved your life, my dear—
And see, he likes your hand!"
Kiss Rover, baby struck him,
But grandmamma understood at the
She said: "It's hard to thank the friend
Who waits for us for good."

PEACE AND HAPPINESS.—How different is the result of harmony between our wants as creatures and the world without: peace is the harmony between us as spiritual beings and the Father of our spirits. The one is as changeable as the objects or circumstances on which it, for the moment, relies; the other is as unchangeable as the God on whom it eternally rests. We may thus possess real happiness and real peace at once, yet either may exist without the other. Nay, more, happiness may be destroyed by God in order the higher blessing of peace may be possessed; but never will He take away peace to give happiness. Happiness without peace is temporal, but peace along with happiness is eternal.—Dr. Newman's Lectures.

THE BEAUTIFUL.—True beauty is moral and spiritual. What is all material beauty compared with? The song of birds, the starry firmament, the many coloured rainbow, the expanses of evening sky, are beautiful. Heaven's light, as it streams over castle, tower and town—sunrises upon the Alps—sunset over the lake, are beautiful. Man spend health, time and money in search of the beautiful; but, after all, it chiefly consists in character. Material forms of beauty are illusory, but beauty of character has a deathless life; it withers not with the bloom on the cheek; the grave cannot cut into its loveliness; it is the spirit's covering, and like the soul it adorns, is immortal. The beauties of holiness never fade.

Oh, boys, I tell you, as some who weep for a dear mother laid away that I'd almost give up my hope for heaven to have her back again for one hour, to kneel down by her side and to have her put that dear hand on my head, and tell me she forgave me of all the mean things I ever did to plague her. Be good to mother, boys; it will pay you richly when she is gone to think you were tender, dutiful and kind to her while she could enjoy and appreciate. One smile of approval from her is worth all the friendship ever showered upon you by all the owls and nightbirds that helped to add to her burden.

FIDELITY.—What is fidelity? It is to be faithful through good report and ill report, through suffering, and if need be, through shame; it is to credit no evil of the one loved from other lips, and if told that such evil is true by his own, to blot it out as though it had never been; to keep true to him through all appearances, however disagreeing, through silence, and trial, and absence; never to forsake him even by one thought, and to brave all the world to serve him; that is what seems fidelity to me—nothing less.

A certain girl has placed a 'cray' quilt containing 9,000 bits of ribbons, it must have taken at least three minutes sewing to the piece. That would make 27,000 minutes—an hour a day for a year and nearly three months more. But still this foolish girl might have learned a modern language, become an accomplished cook and housekeeper, studied a good deal of history and sciences, or have done benevolent educational work among the ignorant and poor that would have lasted to the eternities.

UNKNOWN HEROINES.—How many thousands heroines there must have been, how many thousands there are now, of whom we shall never know! But still they are there. They sow in secret the seed of which we pluck the flower, and eat the fruit, and know not that we pass the sower daily in the street—perhaps some humble, ill-dressed woman, earning painfully her own small subsistence.

Evil, if surrounded on all sides by the brightness of another's prosperity, like scorpion confined within a circle of fire, will sting itself to death.

Good manners is the art of making those people happy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest persons uneasy is the best bred in the company.

There is not in the world so toilsome a trade as the pursuit of fame; life concludes before you have so much as sketched your work.

Four things are grievously empty: A head without brains, a wit without judgment, a heart without honesty and a purse without money.

He who is dear to the heart is near, though far as he can be; he whom the heart rejects is remote, though near as he may be.

Any coward can fight a battle when he is sure of winning; but give us the man who has pluck to fight when he is sure of losing.

Philanthropy, like charity, must begin at home. From this centre our sympathies may extend in over-extending circle.

A Kiss Explained.—A kiss is a paroxysmal contact between the labial appendages attached to the superior and inferior maxillaries respectively of a man and woman or two women. The younger parties are in the more paroxysmal state of the paroxysm, and in case it is observed by the fond father of the paroxysmal young lady, there is also likely to be a pedigree between the paroxysm's pedal junction and the phalangeal extrication of the metatarsus and other bric-a-brac depending from the lower end of the old gentleman's right leg. The kiss itself is not the paroxysm. It is merely the vibrations of the superincumbent atmosphere resultant from the expulsion of sweetness from each of the pairs of lips engaged in creating it.—Bloomington Mail

FIVE LITTLE ONITS.—Only a stray sunbeam! Yet perchance it had cheered some wretched old, gladdened some sick heart, or its golden light had found its way through the leafy branches of a wood, the moss covered banks where the violets grew, and shades of beauty adorn its lovely form. Only a gentle breeze! But how many aching brows bathed in fanned, how many hearts have been cheered by its gentle touch! Only a frown! But it left a sad dreary void in the child's heart: the quivering lips and tearful eyes told how keenly he felt it. Only a smile! But, ah, it cheered the broken heart, engendered a ray of hope, cast a halo of light around the unhappy patient. Only a word of encouragement, a single word! It gives to the drooping spirit new life, and the steps pass on to victory.

PEACE AND HAPPINESS.—How different is the result of harmony between our wants as creatures and the world without: peace is the harmony between us as spiritual beings and the Father of our spirits. The one is as changeable as the objects or circumstances on which it, for the moment, relies; the other is as unchangeable as the God on whom it eternally rests. We may thus possess real happiness and real peace at once, yet either may exist without the other. Nay, more, happiness may be destroyed by God in order the higher blessing of peace may be possessed; but never will He take away peace to give happiness. Happiness without peace is temporal, but peace along with happiness is eternal.—Dr. Newman's Lectures.

FIDELITY.—What is fidelity? It is to be faithful through good report and ill report, through suffering, and if need be, through shame; it is to credit no evil of the one loved from other lips, and if told that such evil is true by his own, to blot it out as though it had never been; to keep true to him through all appearances, however disagreeing, through silence, and trial, and absence; never to forsake him even by one thought, and to brave all the world to serve him; that is what seems fidelity to me—nothing less.

A certain girl has placed a 'cray' quilt containing 9,000 bits of ribbons, it must have taken at least three minutes sewing to the piece. That would make 27,000 minutes—an hour a day for a year and nearly three months more. But still this foolish girl might have learned a modern language, become an accomplished cook and housekeeper, studied a good deal of history and sciences, or have done benevolent educational work among the ignorant and poor that would have lasted to the eternities.

UNKNOWN HEROINES.—How many thousands heroines there must have been, how many thousands there are now, of whom we shall never know! But still they are there. They sow in secret the seed of which we pluck the flower, and eat the fruit, and know not that we pass the sower daily in the street—perhaps some humble, ill-dressed woman, earning painfully her own small subsistence.

Evil, if surrounded on all sides by the brightness of another's prosperity, like scorpion confined within a circle of fire, will sting itself to death.

Good manners is the art of making those people happy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest persons uneasy is the best bred in the company.

There is not in the world so toilsome a trade as the pursuit of fame; life concludes before you have so much as sketched your work.

Four things are grievously empty: A head without brains, a wit without judgment, a heart without honesty and a purse without money.

He who is dear to the heart is near, though far as he can be; he whom the heart rejects is remote, though near as he may be.

Any coward can fight a battle when he is sure of winning; but give us the man who has pluck to fight when he is sure of losing.

Philanthropy, like charity, must begin at home. From this centre our sympathies may extend in over-extending circle.
