KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

SCROFULA

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

"WHAT THE SCHOOLS OF N. B. SHOULD DO FOR HER CHILDREN."

LETTER No. 2.

But let us view the subject from another stand-point. Let us consider the Intellectual side of the education of the child. The world is ever clamoring for intellectual men—men who have received an intellectual education, whether their highly cultivated faculties are in connection with a healthy, well-formed body or not. The intellectual education is all well enough, for I believe that a man should elevate the office to which he has been elected, rather than the office elevate him. But how often it is that men who have spent all their youth in acquiring an education, die right in the prime of life; simply because they neglect to attend to the physical necessities of their constitutions. We assume, therefore, at the very outset, that the physical powers should be developed in harmony with the intellectual faculties, and that it is better to know less and to have more spirit, than to know more and be tame, spiritless and unproductive. In order for our schools to deal successfully with the intellectual part of education, their instructors must have a good general knowledge of Psychology, or the science of the mind. As the captain of a vessel requires a knowledge of navigation, in order to direct and control his ship's course across the ocean, so the teacher needs a knowledge of Psychology, in order to direct and control the development of the intellectual faculties. They must call into action the several faculties of the child, in harmony with the "laws" of their unfolding; when one after another of the faculties has been developed and lessons given (the subject matter of which would form food for reflective thought) the children must be taught, by various devices, to express that thought. Not like Pestalozzi, the Swiss patriot, who required his pupils to repeat after him what he said about the object in hand, (for though he may be regarded as the founder of "object lessons," I think he failed in this respect) but, when they have made their own observations, to report what they have discovered. This is not asking too much of teachers, for it is merely requesting them to let their plan, method or advice be natural and logical—or, in other words, be in accordance with common sense. I shall not take time nor space, here, to describe all the different processes involved in the development of the faculties of the mind; for, to say the least, this part of the subject is worn a little threadbare. Hence it will be sufficient to observe that with clear sensations, perceptions, conceptions, memory, reasoning generalization and imagination, naturally follow. Or, as one great educationalist has put it:—"Children should be taught to observe, first, then to remember, and lastly, to reason or reflect." In connection with this remark it is evident that words should never be taught before things, or, before the idea of things are given, e. g. Take a question in "Reduction," as for instance in reducing bushels to quarts. After working the question, ask the class what we have done. We have changed a number from one name to another. Now reverse the process, and they will plainly see that we have not altered the value. Combine these two statements and we have our rule for Reduction. What our country wants to-day, is more practical teachers. I do not wish to be understood that I under rate the theoretical part of our profession; but I think, and know, that some teachers make theory a hobby; and to read their papers or hear them talk, one would be led to suppose that they were adepts at teaching. But to witness a lesson given it only requires half a glance to see that their teaching is fussy and unanimated, and their lesson pointless; and if we judge by the effect produced we can come to this conclusion, only, that a large portion of the time was worse than lost. From what I have learned of Pestalozzi, I am convinced that he knew very little of theory; but, being one of Nature's own teachers, and the situation in which he was placed forcing him to employ natural means for imparting instruction, he laid the ground-work of our present system of education. We judge of force by its effect upon matter; we judge of the magnitude of the force by the effect produced—apply the same rule to teaching (and I think it is a good one,) and we can easily decide whether a teacher is making his profession a success or a failure. Our schools should develop a taste for music; for it is the natural language of a full soul. All the emotions of the human soul can be expressed in song. Every heart should be the home of music. Every home should be ennobled by sacred, and enlivened by sprightly gladsome music. The highest, holiest feelings of the soul are to be sung. The warmest, truest affections of the heart express their fervour in song. The mourner, yes, even the mourner, loves the mellow, grief-laden cadence of slow, solemn music. The child is hushed to rest by the oft-repeated cradle hymn. The worshipper rises in praise to the swelling notes of the organ. The patriot expresses his bursting joy in the thrilling notes of "Rule, Britannia," or the "Marsellaise;" and the warrior shouts in answer to the stirring fife and drum. We might elaborate much further, and show that it is essential in every department in life. But I think I have gone sufficiently far to show its stimulating, consoling and enlivening effects. How necessary, then, that this heavenly gift should be awakened in the youth of our land, to a chorus of harmony that shall swell above the harsh discords of life. The schools of N. B. should also instil a spirit of patriotism in her children. Why is it that our friends across the "line" evince so much national pride? In their late civil war of 1861, what was it that sent so many youths, fresh from school and college, to perish so fearlessly in those southern swamps, and in those southern wildernesses? It was this: The Americans are never tired of pointing their children back to the proud, old days of the Revolution; to George Washington and Samuel Adams, and the other illustrious names of American history. Do you ask further reason? Look at their text-books. The patriotic element characterizes American literature. Why is it that the Spartans are held up before all ages as patterns of patriots? Because from infancy the Spartan was educated to the belief that the proudest honour that could ever crown his life, would be death for his native land. So the schools of our Province, while imparting intellectual instruction, must not be remiss in their duty towards our country; and it is not too much to expect of them that they will instil in the minds of the rising generation the spirit of popular liberty.

NORMAL SCHOOL, NO. 4.

May 23, 1885.

TEMPERANCE AND THE CHURCH.—The Baptist Convention of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and P. E. Island—probably one of the largest religious representative gatherings in the Maritime Provinces, as it numbers a church membership of nearly forty-two thousand communicants—met in annual session at Amherst, N. S., on the 22nd of August last. The following Resolution, offered by Rev. J. B. Woodland, was enthusiastically passed in the full meeting, only one delegate voting nay:

Whereas, the verdict of the experience of centuries in respect to the traffic in intoxicating liquors has proved to be an enemy of the best interests of our country, ruinous in its results to the social, moral and spiritual well-being of the people, and one of the most formidable obstacles to the progress of the gospel of Christ.

And Whereas, experience has taught us that the use of wine and beer is conducive to the formation of drinking habits amongst the people, and their permissive sale generally made a screen for the sale of the worst form of intoxicants.

And Whereas, We believe that the people of this country possess the inalienable right of self protection against this or any other evil—a right guaranteed to us by the terms and conditions of responsible government—a right prized by our people which they cannot and will not surrender.

Therefore Resolved, that this Convention deplores and condemns the late action of the late Senate of Canada in respect to the proposed amendments to the "Scott Act" as a procedure subvervive of the best interests of the people of this country, destructive to the blessings already obtained through the efforts of temperance men and women, a defiance to the will of the people, and a denial of their privileges; to which in justice to ourselves, our country and the demands of religion, we are not called upon to submit. And we now urgently advice the electors of this country that, in the exercise of the franchise, they sacredly guard the interests of our people in respect to temperance matters, by refusing to support any man who gives his influence or vote to sustain or protect the liquor traffic.

The vital statistics of 1884 in Massachusetts include some interesting facts about divorce. During last year 614 divorces were granted, which number is 41 less in 1883, but 144 more than the yearly average for the past 20 years; 67 per cent of the total number were granted on complaint of the wife. The proportion of divorces to marriages, as compared with one to 27.7 in 1883, one to 34.3 in 1882, and one to 33.1 as a total proportion for the last 20 years.

BRADLEY & McMANUS.

Woodstock, September 5, 1885. CONNELL'S BLOCK.

Messrs. Connell Bros.,

GENTLEMEN,—Having thoroughly tested the "IMPROVED LITTLE GIANT THRESHER," and Double Gear and Level Tread Horse Power and Wood Cutter bought from you last Spring, I can readily certify that I am in every respect fully satisfied with them. I was told before buying not to get a "Giant" for they would not clean grain when threshing fast, as the sieves were too small. But when I heard that you were making the sieves four inches longer than the American machine, I thought you must have the machine I wanted. The long sieves add greatly to its capacity, without danger of wasting grain. Your Level-Tread Horse Power is so very easy on horses; my team does not weigh over 2,100 lbs., and they can run it with great ease. It was so late when I bought that I could not get enough grain in a place to make one whole day's threshing. I have threshed at the rate of four hundred bushels per day, for half a day at a time; the machine was not crowded any; the sieves were clearing themselves; threshing clean, and no grain going over. Every place where I used your Wood Cutter it gave good satisfaction; it is so light and handy: can set it up in so small a space. I had no faith in it and bought it on condition, but I would not have any other now. One man said he had so little faith in that Cutter that he would not let me saw his wood, unless I called his pile of wood a day's work, he always had the same amount of drags cut for a day's work before; I cut it in a little more than half a day. Yours truly, Lakeville, Aug. 13th, 1885. G. R. Smith.

SMALL & FISHER'S "LITTLE GIANT."

READ WHAT THE PEOPLE THINK OF IT.

PLYMOUTH, N. B., AUGUST, 27, 1885.

SMALL & FISHER:

GENTLEMEN,—In reply to your enquiry as to the merits of the "Little Giant Thresher," purchased from you. I would say that having used the Machine two seasons, I have had time to thoroughly test it in all kinds of grain. I might here say that when I purchased, I was prejudiced against the Little Giant. Many had told me that it would not do as good work as your Improved Benjamin Machine. This I find to be a mistake, as it excels it in all respects. It is also very much lighter to move, and remarkably fast without wasting in the straw, or blowing over the sieves. At the same time it cleanses the grain fit for market, and does it equally as well when threshing at the rate of 600 bushels per day. Your Horse Power I believe is the best in the market, being strong and durable, and very easy on the team. When threshing grain for Chas. and Wm. Montgomery, last Fall, we had to lower our power three to three inches before we could control the speed by feeding. Mr. Upham, well known as one of your Machine had excelled them all. If my opinion will be of any use to you you are at liberty to use it. I might add that it is not given in the excitement of trying a new Machine, but after two seasons hard threshing.

Respectfully Yours,
JOSEPH BLACKMORE.
