Shon Maclean's Wedding. Robert Buchanan's New Volume, "Ba lads of Life, Love and Humor.'

It the wedding of Shon Maclean 'Twas wet and windy weather ! Yet, thro' the wind and the rain Came twenty Pipers together ! Earach and Dougal Dhu, Sandy of Isla too, Each with the bonnet o' blue. Tartan, and blackcock feather : And every Piper was fou, Twenty Pipers together !

The knot was tied, the blessing said,

Shon was married, the feast was spread. At the head of the table sat, huge and hoar, Strong Sandy of Isla, age fourscore, Whisker'd, gray as a Haskeir seal, And clad in crimson from head to heel Beneath and round him in their degree Gathered the men of minstrelsie, With keepers, gillies, and lads and lasses, Mingling voices, and jingling glasses. At soup and haggis, at roast and boil'd, Awhile the happy gathering toil'd-While Shon and Jean at the table ends Shook hands with a hundred of their friends

And he took a glass, and he cried out plain, "I drink to the health of Shon Maclean! To Shon the Piper and Jean his wite, A clean fireside and a merry life !" Then out he slipt and each min sprang To his feet, and with 'hooch' the chamber rang " Clear the tables !" sbrick'd out one-A lesp, a scramble—and it was done! CARTER MEDICINE CO., And then the Pipers all in a row Now York City furned their pipes and began to blow, While all to dance stood fain : Sandy of Isla and Earach More. Dougal Dhu from Kilflannan shore, Played up the company on the floor At the wedding of Shon Maclean.

Then came a hush. Thro' the open door

A wee bright form flash'd on the floor-

The Duke himself, in the kilt and plaid,

At the wedding of Shon Maclean, Twenty Pipers together Stood up, while all their train Ceased to clatter and blether. Full of the mountain dew. First in their pipes they blew. Mighty of bone and thew, Red cheek'd, with lungs of leather; And every Piper was fou, Twenty Pipers together

Who led the dance? In pomp and pride The Dake himself led out the bride Great was the joy of each beholder. For the wee Duke only reached her shoulder; And they danced, and turned, when they ran Like a giantess and a fairie man! But like an earthquake was the din When Shon himself led the Duchess in, And she took her place before him there Like a white mouse dancing with a bear, So trim and tidy, so slim and sweet, With a smile that could not be resisted. She jigged and jumped, and twirl'd and twisted. Sandy of Isla led off the reel, The Duke began it with toe and heel, Then all joined in amain; Twenty Pipers ranged in a row, From equinting Shamus to lame Kilcroe, Their cheeks like crimson, began to blow,

At the wedding of Shon Maclean They blew with lungs of leather And blithesome was the strain Those Pipers played together Moist with the mountain dew. Mighty of bone and thew. Each with the bonnet o' blue, Tartan and blackcock feather; And every Piper was fou, Twenty Pipers together.

At the wedding of Shon Maclean.

and children with him. Some months ago, for some unknown cause, the husband and wife separated. The wife continued to reside in their former dwelling and took a few boarders. Holmes is a man fifty years of age and of violent temper. He entered his wife's residence last night unannounced and immediately began a murderous attack upon her with a bowie knife. She was alone in the room when attacked, but defended herself as best she could, while screaming lustily for help. Her sister, Mrs. W. J. Tighe, and Professor J. W.
