Select Tale.

THE TWO CLERKS. In Market Square, in the pleasant city f Merryport, was a crockeryware store. ver the door of which was a bleak sign bearing in gilt letters the name of Benjamin Hudson. For many years this crockery store had been there with the great big pitcher hanging in front for a sign; indeed, when Mr. Hudson first opened this store some 40 years previous, Subscribe now and get balance of year Free. he was quite a young man, and the sign over the door was bright and handsome,

The owner was called "Old Hudson" by the boys and girls of that city. Mr. Benjamin Hudson had grown rich in his business, for he had conducted all himself and taken care that nothing should be wasted or lost by neglect. had made mistakes, to be sure, as every man will make some blunders during his lifetime, but by skilful management he quietly recovered from them. Sixty-five years had begun to bend over Mr. Hudson's shoulders and dim the brightness of his eyes, and he found business more irksome than it formerly had been,

"I must have a partner," said he one day to himself as he sat before a cheerful fire. "I must have some one interested in the business who is young and active and day to himself as he sat before a cheerful 'Im will take the weight off my shoulders, for I do not care to do as I used to." (Special Correspondence.) THE WAY CHRISTMAS IS CELEBRATED IN SOME PARTS OF THE SUNNY SOUTH. Southern Pines, N. C. Jan. 2, 1886. Some imes I am inclined to believe that everything in the South is directly opposite to the same things in the North. I have referred to some of these things in earlier letters. I shall now refer particularly to the manner in which Christmas is celebrated down here.

It is indeed a poor cabin that does not furnish its annual abundance of Christmas cheer, chief of which is the large bowl of egg-nogg, of which the guest is welcome to eat his ffil.

There now! I've done it! I know that many hands will be raised in astonishment and many voices will exclaim-" Eat eggnogg! Why, what an idea!" But I won't take back a word that I have said, for they do eat egg-nogg down here. And this is the way they build the com-
