OUR KENT COUNTY LETTER.
III

Jan. 26, 1886

Our last letter left us at St. Louis, the terminus of the St. Louis Branch Railway, to Richibucto. Here is a station and to this point, seven miles from Richibucto, runs a train three times a week, but what service it will ever be to anybody but the Catholics of St. Louis no living man can tell. It may take a few of the curious to see what I tried to explain in my last, and it may be a more convenient mode of carrying persons to the convent and college, but there can never apparently be enough to keep this line running at a paying rate. The fare for passengers from Richibucto to St. Louis is 25 cents. We shall not get aboard in our trip, as we want to branch off a few miles and take a look at a very pretty settlement, called the "North-West." Here is another large R. C. chapel and quite a large settlement of French farmers. Many very comfortable looking houses well and stylishly built, with good fields of hay and grain when we last saw them, would lead one to think the people were well to do. But we must not stop too long in one place, or we shall be a long time getting through the county.

From the "North-West" we can take the road leading through a woody country until we strike Mill Creek, in a central road fairly well settled, till we come into Richibucto, or retrace our steps and again reach the post road, and through a flat and mostly barren country, with a few settlers mostly French, come to the shiretown from the North End. Nothing of interest is found on either of these roads, so that we need not stay long on the journey. When we enter the town we cross a creek and at once we are face to face with a R. C. chapel and a hall, dedicated to some saint. At this corner is the house of Father Bannon, the very popular young priest, and a very fine house built at the price of rum by one of our "respectable" rumsellers, if there ever was such a person. Wonderful town! It has less than 400 inhabitants, and 11 rumshops. For the past year our county has been novel in this respect; that with a local license act, the rumsellers (and they are legion) have been selling without a license in the county. At the meeting of the Council Board, last week, only a few licenses were granted, and an Inspector of Licenses was appointed for each parish, and the temperance people are hoping for better times this year. Here we have reached the third place on our route, to where hotels are found for travellers, and not one Temperance Hotel amongst them.

O! think of it! 400 inhabitants; one R. C., one Methodist; two Episcopalian (though only one congregation) and a Temperance Hall, where the Presbyterians worship, a Lodge of I. O. G. T., and a Division of Sons of Temperance, and yet eleven rum-shops. I think Richibucto ought to be proud enough to hang itself at the showing. But, pardon me, I did not mean to write on temperance, and an account of the town must fill our next letter.

THE FLORIDA COLD WAVE.—Recent letters from Florida state that the cold weather there has been long and severe, and that such a long period of freezing weather has not been known for many years. The freeze continued for six days without a thaw, and, though the temperature is now normal, it is stated that the fruit on the trees are nearly all frozen, and that the trees are considerably damaged. It is thought that most of the unprotected groves are a total loss. This will be a severe blow to the interests of Florida, as much capital and labor have been expended during the past years. The proportion of young groves in Florida is over 50 per cent. of the entire acreage now devoted to orange culture.

From South Florida, it is learned that the cold has been nearly if not quite as severe as in the more northern points. In Oakland, Orange county, on the South Florida railroad, the thermometer was 20° to 22° for several days. Pineapples, vegetables and oranges were frozen. On the St. John river the cold was equally severe. It is expected a light crop of oranges next year will be the result.

The Boston correspondent of the Northwestern Lumberman says that indications point to a boom in the spruce market when navigation opens in the spring, and it would not surprise many to see spruce start off at $15 a thousand. He says: It is certainly worth that price, and the mill men would not make fortunes in a single season at that figure, and the dealers would still be able to make a fair profit. The returns of the surveyor General show that over 9,000,000 ft. more spruce was handled by his deputies in 1885 than during the previous year, and over 4,000,000 ft. in excess of the returns of 1882, when the trade was looked upon as very large. It is to be hoped that the unsatisfactory features of the market noticeable during the past year will not be repeated in the year to come. Such a course is unnecessary, and only stamps the men in the business unequal to the emergency. If in the season before us good judgment and an ordinary amount of foresight prevail, the volume of trade can be maintained, and with it better prices, and, of course, more satisfactory results.—Globe.

One of the most remarkable men in the British Parliament is Joseph Arch. Fifteen years ago Arch was a common farm labourer, supporting himself and family on $4 a week. His wife could read and write when he married her and she taught him all she knew. After learning to read, Arch spent his nights reading everything he could get hold of. He began organizing labour unions among the farmers and speaking to them. This made him disliked by the landlords, and it was a difficult matter for him to get work. Last summer the new franchise bill made voters of 800,000 tenant farmers, and Arch, for the first time, found himself a rich man. With plucky audacity this emancipated serf stood for Parliament, and was elected over the great tory magnate, Lord Henry Bentinck.—Globe.

BOB has had 13 years experience in the oyster business, and can say that Providence River oysters were never larger, fatter, or cheaper than at present. In fact, they are clear Josephine Kid, this year 1886, and we are letting them go free of charge and furnishing kettles to carry home; all you have to do is pay the cash. There will be no more credit business done at Seaborn's Eating and Oyster House, as we will sell you all the money you want. No endorser desired, all you want is a good Sanctified countenance. Yours Perpetually, SEABORN ROBERT H.

An American missionary in Armenia received through the mails a number of Moody and Sankey hymn books, but the eagle eyed inspector of the Turkish post office decided that "Hold the Fort" was pronounced encouragement of revolution, and he expurgated that lyric from every volume.

The other day in Rochester, New York, Joseph Walsh, aged fifty, fell into a circular cutting mill in the Brooklyn sugar house and was chopped to pieces. Frederick Bird, a fellow workman, reluctantly consented to remove the mangled remains from among the knives. After he had done so he was completely unnerved, and dropped dead from heart disease superinduced by the shock.

All reports agree that this is the hardest winter Scotland has experienced in twenty years. The snow is two feet deep. Sheep are starving and perishing and wild birds are flocking to towns and villages to obtain food. The railroad companies find it very difficult to keep their trains moving.

John R. Moore, a wealthy farmer, whose home is near Clifford, Mich., during a temporary fit of insanity, one day last week, removed the cover from a large wood stove and jumped head first in on the hot fire. Although he was dragged out almost immediately, he was terribly burned about the head and upper portion of his body, and recovery is doubtful.

FOR centuries past Inventors have racked their brains to devise some means of robbing wash-day of its terror. Thousands of varieties of Soaps, Washing Compounds, Washing Machines, etc. etc., have been thrown on the Market and still the back-breaking washboard has continued its work of ruin and destruction, annually destroying millions of dollars worth of Clothing and driving thousands of women into premature graves. But now the scene has changed. The

cleanses perfectly without any wear on the clothes and with very little labor for the operator. It has been tried in the fire of a public opinion, prejudiced against it by the failure of all other varieties of Washing Machines, and has stood the test. It saves Water, Soap, Fuel and Clothing, as well as Labor, Health, Strength, and Life itself. Write us for testimonials of some of our customers. Address
