Rum and Revenue.
We license men to sell liquor because of the tax they pay. In New Canada the liquor tax—or the revenue derived from the liquor tax—is about $30,000 a year.

To raise this $30,000 the state has about 2000 licensed bar-rooms, and consequently there are 2000 bar-keepers who do not produce anything, but who are consumers. There are about 10,000 loafers, or dead-beats, who hang around the grog shops, who do not work, or at most work very little; 200 that add together the 2000 bar-keepers and the 10,000 loafers, we have 12,000 idle men in the State, who have to be fed and clothed at somebody's expense. We can't afford to do anything, but who are consumers.
