But of all eccentricities of personal decoration the oddest, I think, is that of gilding the hair, which, I am told, young Canton girls do on very full dress occasions. Certainly 1 do remember a time when some English ladies powdered their hair with gold dust; but then they are opened in places where none have existed for centuries, and there is a visible decay in the health and happiness of the people. Mr. Gladstone has publicly declared that the evil produced by drankenness is equal to the some bined evils of war, famine and pestilence.
