readers of this paper might be pleased to hear something of this busy little town.

Berlin has a population of something over "three thousand," is situated on the Androscoggin River about thirty-five miles from Umbagog Lake, where it takes its rise. The principal Business done here consists in the manufacturing of lumber, and pulp for paper. The "Forest Fibre Co." manufacture pulp for exportation. Then we have "The White Mountain Pulp and Paper Co.." and "The Mountain Pulp and Paper Co.." and "The grave, and a contemplation of their virtues to their grave, and a contemplation of their virtues.

One would suppose that it would be the duty, as well as a subdued pleasure of the living to see that the resting place of their triends should not fall into disorder and decay. While we would not advocate that grief should be cherished, we have no hesitation in saying that the memory of the dead should not be forgotten, and that our recollection of them may be intensified by a visit to their grave, and a contemplation of their virtues.

About three hundred yards below the Falls the river is spanned by a suspension bridge built in 1860. We walk to the middle of this and look at the Falls. At first we are disappointed. Not until we watch a log go over do we think there is much of a fall. But when we go down on the rocks just below the pitch, and look up at the water rushing down, boiling and leaping in the air from ten to fifty feet we are impressed with the grandeur of the scene. In the presence of one of nature's most powerful agents, a sense of our weakness creeps over us and we even fancy that the rocks beneath us are trembling.

Logs usually go over endways. We saw them plunge, remain under water for a hundred feet before coming up, or sometimes almost immediately after disappearing reappear, leaping clear of the water. Others only a few feet came above the water and were hurled against the rocks below, or were twisted around as if they were sticks.

We have also a good sup ply of restaurants where oyster stews, ice creams, or cool drinks of any desirable flavor can be found at all hours, and I fear that at some of those places warm drinks are found. But as "The Salvation Army" has been here for some time, we trust that ere long we will notice a marked improvement. As yet, I have failed to notice any improvement made by the "Army," but a vast amount of excitement.

It is to be hoped the results will be good.

There are three very nice churches in this town—the Universalist, Roman Catholic, and the Congregationist. The Universalist Church has been finished or is being finished at present, and has the honor of having the first church bell in Berlin, N. H. I trust the tones of this bell as they float out on the air tones of this bell as they float cut on the air will prompt the ambition of the other churches, and that ere long we shall hear three bells on Sunday mornings. Since I have been at Berlin, I have listened to many very eloquent sermons here, as well as at Portland, Me., and by elergymen of various religious denominations, but I have heard no voice since I left Woodsteck, N. As I look from my window while writing and see the rapid, rushing, leaping waters of the Androseoggin rushing on in their holiday glee, I am reminded of what a gentleman at Portland, once remarked to me: He said the waters of N B. were like the people there, gliding on at about the same rate from year to year, and that the waters of Maine and N.
