Bristol Items. PIE SOCIABLE-A Pie Sociable, compliment ary to Rev L. Hoyt, was held at the residence of Mr. Britton, Bristol, on the evening of the 15th, when a large number of friends of therev gentleman from surrounding districts, including members of all religious communions, asse bled together to show their regard for the es teemed clergyman from Andover. As is usus on such interesting occasions, the friends did not come empty handed. Their contributions to the sociable consisted of ornamental backets of chaste and beautiful design, filled with delicious savory and luscious pies, fit to tempt the appe tite of the most tastidious epicure, cakes of every conceivable composition and glistening with al he sweet attractions of saccharine frostwork, and fowls and chickens, delicately cooked. A syndicate had been previously incorporated -a fraternity of bulls -to run up and corner stock, after the most approved Wall street fashion, in behalf of the church, consisting of Mr. Murphy, Eas Florenceville; Dr. Atkinson, Bristol; Mr. Mc Lean, Bristol; Mr. Britton, Bristol, etc. As fast as the pies were bought up-principally by these gentlemen-they were passed out to another room, where in the meantime another syn dicate had been duly incorporated, who took forcible possession of the purchased stock, and sold them over again. The backets in the tran sition were so mutilated that, when sent back to room No. 1, syndicate No. 1 did not know their own original property, and actually bade again -sale No. 3-on them. It is written a three fold cord is not easily broken; the reason is, 1 is pretty strong. In like manner things sold three times, and yielding the proceeds of each sale, it can easily be understood, bring a pretty big price Besides, you know, godliness is pro fitable unto all things; again the hand of the diligent maketh rich. Is it to be wondered at that in this pious emulation the handsome sum of $61 50 was realized to aid in the spread of the gospel. After the sale, the large company were entertained to a sumptuous tes, and did ample justice to all the good things provided When the tables were drawn, E.S. Gilmore, Esq. John R. Tompkins, Esq., and Mr. Jamieson, on behalf of the assembly presented Mr. Hoyt with the liberal proceeds, which Mr. Hoyt acknow ledged in those graceful and feeling terms which are usual on such delightful occasions.
