The late Dr. Hovey was a graduate of Bowdin Medical College, in the State of Maine. He spent some time in the Bellview Hospital as a student, and in 1868 he returned to his native Province and located at Centreville, where he pursued his medical profession till the time of his death. Dr. Hovey was a most conscientious physician, sympathetic and kind. While minphysician, sympathetic and kind. While min-istering to the physical ills of his patients, he istering to the physical ills of his patients, he would frequently point them to the Great Physician, who could heal their spiritual maladies through His atoning blood. In religious matters the Doctor was naturally reticent, but nevertheless firmly relied on the atoning and loving Saviour for his acceptance with God. He was patient in his sufferings, calm and collected in patient in his sufferings, calm and collected in characteristics.
