The Garleton Sentinel.

SATURDAY, MAY 12, 1888.

SENTINEL Office, in Vanward's Brick Building, King Street, up stairs.

The Government has decided to make no grant this year for a Dominion Exhibition.

In 1812, there were only 95 property owners in Fredericton, and 92 persons qualified to vote.

There are now pending in the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in Boston, for trial, this May, 251 divorce cases.

ALFRED BARNES, aged 55, said to have been the oldest living Mason in the world, died on the 6th, at Mexico, Mo.

In the election for Russell County, Ontario, on Monday, the Liberal candidate, Edwards, was elected by a majority of 500.

There are, it is said, over 1,000,000 people out of employment in the United States of whom in New York alone there are 67,000 men and 50,000 women idle.

By collision of two sections of a freight train and explosion of a car of powder in Mount Carmel, Pa., on Saturday, several persons were killed to death and many others severely injured.

At the general conference of the Methodist Church in the United States, now being held in New York, there are present 300 delegates, representing 100 conferences and above 2,000,000 communicants.

A crop of libel suits threaten to grow out of the recent Hawke case. It is said that G. F. Gregory has commenced suit against McNott of the Fredericton, and Mr. McLeod another against G. F. Gregory for libel.

Mr. McCarthy's bill to amend the Canada Temperance Act passed the Commons on Monday. Amendments were adopted to permit physicians, chemists or druggists to sell medicinal preparations containing alcohol, and giving physicians the right of appeal from convictions by stipendiary magistrates.

"Producers," the new St. John weekly has made its appearance, and the first number more than fulfills all the promise contained in the prospectus. It is a large, cheap paper, well printed and well filled, and maintaining its present standard must become popular.

Light Wanted.
For some reason or other the electric lights on Broadway are frequently now where there is no light, and the town where there is light is not where it is needed, as on the street named and the Councilors of Wellington Ward will confer a favor by seeing that in this matter it is not neglected.

A Novel Capture.
A real estate broker of Washington Street, Boston, is under arrest for conspiring to cause the death of his sister, the object being to retain the use of a large amount of money held by him and which was likely to lose by the projected marriage of his sister.

Holman, the name of the above would-be murderer of his sister, was detected in a novel fashion. Searching for an accomplice to commit the murder, he was introduced to a policeman in disguise to whom he made known his plans, promising to pay him $1,000, for which he gave him a note of hand, when the deed was accomplished. This policeman required an assistant and prevailed upon Holman to employ another disguised policeman. To this Holman gave himself entirely away, and, on the day before the murder was to be done, he was arrested.

Mr. Hale, M. P., and His Vote.
In consequence of his vote with the Government and against Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment to the motion to go into supply, the St. John Globe's telegraphic correspondent said it was considered at Ottawa that Mr. Hale had gone over to the Conservative party; the Montreal Star made a similar statement, adding that Mr. Hale had protested against the policy pursued by the Opposition, and that he had been formally read out of the Liberal party. The St. John Sun, referring to this defection on the part of Mr. Hale, added, in effect, that in this course he was in accord with his constituents.

What pledges, public or private, Mr. Hale made previous to his election, and upon what platform he was elected, are matters between himself and his constituents and it is for them to decide upon the record.

Of course the issue joined, on which the vote referred to was taken, was not a side issue, but involved questions of fact and questions of policy on which the two parties differ. Hon. Mr. Cartwright's amendment, which has been published, is a broad arrangement and presents the financial views of the party of which he is a prominent spokesman. Mr. Hale, in supporting the government motion and opposing the amendment, clearly placed himself in line with the general policy of the Government; in doing so, he accepted the responsibility of an independent action, which, if it be at variance with the views of the Liberal or Conservative party, whose nominee he was at the last election, he has to answer to them and to alone. When he speaks and gives his reasons for the course he has taken, he can be judged for his merits.

Arbor Day.
In another column will be found Inspector Oakes' announcement respecting Arbor Day throughout the Dominion. We invite the attention of teachers and others interested in the welfare of our public schools to this notice, given as it is in conformity with a fixed regulation of the Board of Education. Great interest will attach to the observance of Arbor Day this year, as this is the day, we are informed, to be observed throughout the entire province.

Many of our readers are already familiar with the beginning of this movement in the province, when the St. Stephen schools, four years ago, held an Arbor Day celebration, and planted several hundred trees on their school grounds. This was followed in the next year by many schools throughout Mr. Oakes' Inspectorate observing, on his recommendation, the 24th May as a school Arbor Day. The result was that about 1,600 trees were planted chiefly in York and Carleton Counties. Public attention having been thus directed to the movement, and Teachers and Inspectors having recommended that provision be made for a day for school-ground improvements, the Board of Education in last year introduced a regulation for an annual Arbor Day for all schools in the province. We notice by the last Education Report, that the number of trees planted last year was 3170, flower beds laid out, 162. We are informed that many Boards of Trustees last year purchased new school grounds and fenced and improved them on Arbor Day. Such results as these must be exceedingly gratifying to those who have been promoting this tree-planting movement. We observe, also, that in the same report is published the excellent suggestions of the Chief Supt. of Education concerning the proper observance of Arbor Day. Those who read access to this report would do well to heed the suggestions of the Chief Supt. of Education.

No doubt many mistakes were made in the past years in planting trees on the school grounds. This was to be expected, but we hope that no teacher or Board of Trustees will make this an excuse for neglecting to plant again this year. It is especially desirable that all dead trees be replaced by others this Spring, and, if necessary, others planted within the school premises and along the borders of the highways, in groves for work begun on our Town school grounds will be preserved in again this year. No doubt many trees are dead. If the work is followed up, and the grounds are kept enclosed, we shall have in a few years school premises that will be a source of pride to all our citizens. We notice that the Governor of Massachusetts has recently proclaimed an Arbor Day for all citizens of that State, the object being to plant trees on the homesteads, along the borders of the highways, in groves for economic purposes, around churches and other public buildings, and anywhere else for private or public good. Tree planting on Arbor Day for economic purposes in the great West, has given to the prairie States many thousands of acres of new forest, and inspired the people with a sense of their great value, not only for economic purposes but for climatic and meteorological purposes as well.

The celebration of Arbor Day by the public schools, in several of the older States, by the planting of memorial trees, as originated at Cincinnati in the Spring of 1882, has done much to awaken a wide-spread interest in the study of trees and forestry, and this annual celebration promises to become as general in the public schools and among the people as May Day in England. We hope similar results will appear in New Brunswick.

Our forests are great and important heritage. Our future largely depends on the future treatment of our tree-crofted area. Well will it be for this province if our young people can be trained to realize this truth by other means than forest depletion.
