cardine, on Wednesday, the 24th Oct. The afternoon session opened with a fair attendance, the President, G. T. Baird, M. P. P., in the chair. In the absence of the Secretary, Mr. F. C. Bloodsworth was appointed Secretary, protem. The meeting was opened with singing by the choir, reading of the Scriptures and prayer by Rev. J. J. Barnes. The President then gave the opening address on "The object and aims of the Association" On motion it was resolved to have the address published. A considerable portion of time was spent in discussing points of the address. The Secretary arriving, proceeded to his duties. One point advocated by different members, was the duty of ministers to take an active interest in S. S. work, It was considered deavors to continue their schools throughout the whole year. In closing they requested the hearty co-operation of all church workers in S. S. work, and prayed for abundant blessing on efforts put forth. On motion the report was adopted.

Mr. Bloodsworth gave notice that he would move at the next annual convention that the Constitution be changed so as to admit of the annual meeting being held when there would be good moonlight, instead of the date being fixed at the 4th Wednesday in October.

A collection was taken up, and the Convention closed with the benediction.

NEW FALL OVERCOATINGS; active interest in S. S. work. It was considered advisable that they preach a sermon in the interests of the work as often as the circumstances of their circuit render practicable. Another point dealt with was that of the strong supporting the weak.

Mr. Innes spoke of visiting a S. School, lately, in which was a class composed of railway workers. Some of them could not read. He thought we should do all we could to help such. He had enjoyed his interview with them.

Mr. Watson spoke strongly in favor of the leachers' meeting. Some times Teachers who came to the meeting unprepared through lack of time, confessed themselves, at the close of the meeting, much helped by the examination of the Sunday School into two or three sections, and hold the several portions wherever convenient accommodation could be obtained. Some times it might be well to meet in a private house. He was strongly in favor of schools keeping open during the whole year, but some of the schools could not, he thought, be kept up to advantage in Winter.

that for causes heretolore made known to her Majesty's government Minister West's continuance in his position was not acceptable to this government, the Secretary had to run away to keep off the interviewers. The sensation was greater than that which arose when the Murchison letter was first published.

Mr. Bayard referred all reporters to the official vantage in Winter.

Rev. Mr. Fiske gave an address on the Sabbath Schools, and how to make them more useful.

The minutes of the March meeting were read and approved, and the Secretary gave a report In the Parish were 148 schools, 9 of these evergreen. Number of officers and teachers, 66; scholars, 465; total membership, 581; average attendance, 307; amount of money received, $2; expences, $3.03. Several of the Superintendents spoke a few words relative to their schools. Mr. Low spoke of good attendance. Mr. Baird was assisted by good teachers, fairly punctual. Scholars always punctual. Strongly in favor of keeping up the school during the Winter, it required two or three months to get get it up again to the working condition in which it was at the time of closing. He thought it a good thing to invite the boy or girl one might meet, and who was not a S. s. scholar, to come to the S. School, and recommended visiting from house to house. Give the young men a kind word. Let the teacher who would be successful be well acquainted with the lesson. Don't attempt to teven what you do not know. Mr. Bloodsworth believed in commencing the study of the lesson the Sunday before. Mr. Barnes asked what should be done with a disagreeable teacher, whose presence seemed hurtful to the school.

Rev. Mr. Fiske gave and address on the Sabbath Schools, and the resurd of apology or execuse. Lord Salisbury's permission to make his side of the question public. Minister West will cord fall subtract to word of apology or execuse. He does not even deplore his conduct. He believes he was right and is self justified. As he has recently come into an immense fortune he can afford to be indifferent to public clamor.

The absurd portion of Secretary Bayard's report to the President consis s in his reference to the deadly Murchison. The statute quoted by the Secretary has, in the opinion of leading attorneys here, no application to the case, and the reward of $2,000 offered for Murchison's detection is amusing. Murchison have go into a dime museum; he will never go

Rev. Mr. Fiske thought one way for the strong to support the weak, was for parents to take little whiles with their children, to help them with their Bible study. As a help to the keeping of order in the S. School it was recemmended that the Teacher come well furnished with questions, and nothing else is talked of anywhere. If Ecgland had been asked for a new Minister, compliance would have been immediate.

C. Bloodsworth was elected Vice President, and Mr. R. Watson, Secretary Tressurer, there was held out a very important interest of the work, a much brighter prospect; the schools were likely to receive much more extensive visitation. The Secretary should always be a layman if one can be found, who will vigorously take hold of the work. The other members chosen to complete the Executive Committee were: Messrs. D. Low, D.
