Mr. White's Response.

To the Editors of the Carleton Sentinel:

Kindly allow me space to reply to S. G. Burpee, who, for want of argument to justify his official misconduct towards me on more than one occasion, descends to low abuse to justify the position taken by him.

In the first place I can prove he never said the mail bag was sealed. He says, "no one but a rogue or a fool would have askcd me to have done so," the purport and force of which he is in blissful ignorance; perhaps some information on this point may be interesting to him, at least. A rogue is one who enters into business, employs men, makes debts, and then conveniently compromises with his creditors, or enters the bankrupt court, pocketing the proceeds and defrauds his creditors. A fool is a man holding a public office, from which he gets his bread, and, in return, gives unlimited abuse to his benefactors, who, if justice was meted out, would speedily be discharged.

It may be that he considers my word of small value, but he will believe me when I say better men than S. G. Burpee have been discharged from office for a less offence, than refusing to deliver mail matter when asked for.

Yours,
GEO. W. WHITE.

A Citizen on the Mayor's Vote.

To the Editors of the Carleton Sentinel:

I was present at a meeting of the Town Council on the 16th ult., and was gratified at the manner in which His Worship Mayor Jones treated Coun. Drysdale (who might be called the Parnell of the present council), who seemed only too ready to make objections. But on further consideration it is evident that Mayor Jones did himself, at least, an injustice by voting with the council. "Lex," in the SENTINEL, wants to know how the Mayor can vote when the council are voting by ballot unless he votes with them? I would refer "Lex," to the act of incorporation which imposes certain duties upon the Mayor which no action of any council can override, and one of these is the way he shall vote: you will notice that shall, which is imperative, is the word used. Now if the council resolve to vote by ballot, it is my opinion the Mayor's duty, if a majority have voted on a given question, to announce the result, and, if there are equal votes, he is to give the casting vote as the law allows. How would "Lex," manage if he was in the Mayor's chair and only nine councillors present, and a vote by ballot be taken and the Mayor voting with them and the result be an equal vote. Perhaps "Lex," thinks that the meeting on the 16th ult., was not a meeting of the Town Council. If he says it was, then it comes under the act of incorporation, which says very clearly that the Mayor SHALL NOT vote except in cases of equal votes. At the meeting in question, Mayor Jones did vote and gave the result of the ballot, which, as he said himself, there was law for doing.

Has the Mayor a right to vote or not?

A CITIZEN.

Mr. Stickney Replies to Ratepayer.

To the Editors of the Carleton Sentinel:

In reply to a Ratepayer, in your issue of the 28th ult., I have to say that although not a ratepayer of Brighton at present, I am a ratepayer of the county, and, having taken up my residence in Brighton, and having heard so much faultfinding about the way the last parish election was conducted, I thought it would be right to bring the matter before the proper tribunal for investigation, so that if there had been any wrong doing in the matter the censure would fall on the right shoulders. This would also give the chairman a chance to vindicate himself against the charge of receiving ballots from parties who had not paid their rates. For having proved him through a long course of dealing to be a strictly upright, honest man, I could not bring myself to believe that he had been guilty of any intentional wrong in conducting the election. It was not because I wanted the election voided, but because, as I before stated, that the blame if any might be laid to the person who deserved it. And I might say here that I was not the prime mover in the matter, but headed the petition by request, and I only hope that it will make chairmen at elections more careful to retain receipts handed in to them, so that one person cannot vote on a receipt which he has stolen or picked off the floor, and that collectors of rates will be careful to put the receiver's name on every receipt they give. It is evident that there has been a great deal of irregularity in conducting parish elections. Although I do not know it to be a fact, yet I have heard it positively asserted in other parishes, that collectors have given persons, who have not paid their taxes, accommodation receipts, which they would present to the chairman and vote upon them, and then return them to the collector. I, for one, am opposed to the law requiring ratepayers to pay their taxes before they are allowed to vote, and would be glad to see it repealed, but this we need not expect as long as we have a set of obstructionist in the shape of a Legislative Council who have already thrown out two bills passed by the lower house for that purpose. But though not in favor of the law, as it stands, as law-abiding citizens, I say that while we have it on the Statute Book we should strictly adhere to it.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE STICKNEY.

Brighton, Feb. 4, 1888.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM AFRICA.

Lukung', Dec. 2nd, 1887.

In this sunny spot, two hundred miles from the mouth of Congo, and beside one of its Southern tributaries (Loukings) we have had our home five months,—busy months—but being blessed with good health we greatly enjoy each day as it comes. We have had a variety of work, in study of the language, teaching in the school (that at present has an enrolment of forty-five,) and visiting the towns to talk with the women. The women of this part of Congo, seem much more degraded than the men, apparently having little thought beyond making themselves hideous with paints and ornaments of ivory, brass and beads. Their work is to cultivate the soil, prepare the food, and carry their garden products to market. It is not an uncommon sight to see numbers of them—with deep baskets, carried on the head or shoulder, and long pipes in their mouths and a child of a few months or perhaps years tied to its mother's side by a sash—on their way to market. Where they have come directly under the influence of the Gospel, there is a decided change in dress and habits.

The men are carriers and traders. They have laws by which they are governed, and in their difficulties and manner of settling them, they have a semblance of our "trial by jury." Each party secures for the occasion the speaker, in every way answering to the lawyer, who carefully prepares himself by becoming acquainted with the facts. At the appointed time the parties meet in presence of the king or chief. (Every important town has its "palaver" or teaching-place under some spreading tree, or near the king's residence). The case is stated and witnesses are examined. Then each of the chosen speakers, in his turn, makes a strong plea for his client. The case is decided by a council of the chief men of the town or towns represented. In case of dissatisfaction the matter is taken before a more powerful king, who finally decides.

They have, as well, regularly formed societies for carrying on trade more extensively than their individual means would admit of. A society may number from ten to a hundred. The right of membership is the payment of a certain number of strings of blue beads (Congo money), each week. These are received by each man, in his turn, and determined by lot—and with these he trades during the week in much more valuable things, than if no more than his own money were his to invest. Any member, failing to contribute his weekly dues, is subject to a fine of one pig, thus enriching the others by that much. The Fiote week has four days only. The four chief market places bear the same names. Great numbers congregate each day at the market corresponding in name to the day of the week. The trade is in fruits, vegetables, ivory, salt, beads, brass rods &c. The laws for stealing are very severe: formerly it was death on the spot, by burying alive. I passed one large market where many trees were growing, said to be the stakes driven in the ground after such burials.

Some days since, we saw the smoke of guns, rising from a market distant seven or eight miles. The following day, we learned that a fight had taken place between different tribes, but no loss of life, a few wounds stopped the the trouble for that time. These disturbances are not now frequent. The Gospel has done much in putting away such heinous practices, but it grieves the hearts of those, whose only aim is, to benefit this neglected people, to know that Europeans are counteracting good influence by encouraging the liquor traffic, that enriches the traders, but curses the poor African. His appetite, already formed by the constant use of palm-wine, readily seizs upon the stronger element, and he freely gives vegetables, fruits, and fowls for this peace destroyer. I have been told that at one trading station, as many as fifty fowls were received daily, and paid for, in rum.

Some of the old customs are still kept up, such as firing of guns and beating of drums at deaths. If the deceased is an important person, this is continued at intervals for several days, that those who wish, may gather from the adjoining tribes to participate in the feast and dance that continues through one night. We attended the funeral of a king, who died over two years ago. Hundreds were present. The band consisted of four large drums and many horns.

The country, that a few weeks since, seemed so barren, has suddenly assumed a new character. The rains began early in October and in a few weeks, the green fields and luxuriant foliage told us of latent life where we had thought sterility only belonged. The gardens were planted, and now we can walk through waving fields of maize, Madioce peas, &c., while ripened fruits are already upon the trees. Pineapples, plantains and bananas yield their fruits through the entire year. This valley is very fertile—the same ground producing plentifully year after year, without enriching. Native products are steadily increasing in value. In the earlier days of this "Mission", chickens were bought for sixpence, each, now we pay from one shilling and sixpence to two shillings.

We are encouraged in our work by the steadfastness of those who have received the message, and by others inquiring the way. The little church, recently organized, increases in spiritual power and in numbers. Souls are awakened. We are looking for a gracious outpouring of the Spirit, upon this people, where the Christian Standard, has been, and is, faithfully unfurled,—

"In Gods own name we set up this banner,
brave and bright,
Uplifted for the cause of Christ, the cause of Truth and Right.
The cause that none can overthrow, the cause
that must prevail,
Because the promise of the Lord can never,
never fail."

LINA FAULKNER.

TAMARAC

Mr J. G. Steacy, general merchant, of Escott, Ontario, says: I take great pleasure in recommending "Tamarac Elixir." I Suffered from a severe cough for several months which was considered incurable, although I tried numerous remedies, and was under the care of a physician for some time. Nothing relieved me until I used "Tamarac." The first dose of "Tamarac" seemed to do me more good than all the medicine I had previously taken. Three bottles effected a perfect cure.

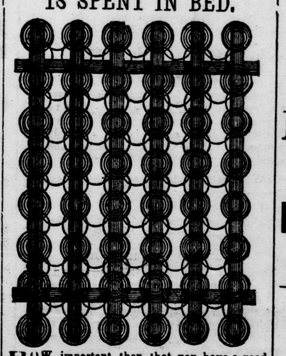
ONE THIRD OF YOUR LIFE IS SPENT IN BED.



HOW important then that you have a good Bed to sleep on. The more quiet and undisturbed your slumber, the more fully does nature repair the waste and damage your system has sustained during the day. The man who comes home exhausted by the labors of the day and stretches himself upon a hard uneven bed will rise in the morning very little benefitted by his sleep. Other things being equal, the man who has a comfortable bed will have clearer brain a stronger arm, and a longer life than his neighbor who is not so fortunate. The BUTTERFIELD SPRING BED will positively give more solid comfort to the square inch than any other bed in the market. And the man who is fortunate enough to possess one is led to say with Sancho Panza: "Blessed be the man that invented sleep." It is the only bed ever made that has the elastic spring and brace, each bed being connected on the surface with side springs. There is thus formed a perfect spring surface, which gives an elastic movement wherever weight is placed.

Having secured the exclusive right to manufacture these Beds in New Brunswick, I am prepared to sell them either at wholesale or retail.

Good reliable agents wanted in the Northern and Eastern Counties, to whom exclusive Territory will be given. I am also prepared to sell rights to manufacture in Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, or to arrange with reliable parties who wish to manufacture on royalty.
