Sad Fredericton.

Fredericton was sad in the weather ar sad in its feelings on Wednesday for the peo ple of that city generally, and the association having in charge the preparations for the cattle and horse show particularly, suffered a sad disappointment. In a word the weather was so bad that the show had to be postponed Serious as was the disappointment to the parties named it was perhaps more so to those who had come from long distances either as intending exhibitors, bringing their show there were considerable numbers tempted by the fine promise of the programme and by the low excursion rates offered over the various lines of travel. So much for Wednesday but what of Thursday the second day?
