SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1889.

SENTINEL Office, in Vanwart's Brick Building, King street, up stairs.

A lady, in Boston, advertises to board cats with all conveniences for their comfort and loving care.

On the earliest railroads on this continent, and in parts of Europe, the motive power was horses working an endless chain and wind power, sails being used.

In consequence of an express train, near Lynchburg, Va., running into a washout, on the 2nd, the train was wrecked and burned, and employees and passengers, the number variously estimated at from five to forty, lost their lives.

While Mr. Ellis, of the Globe, was seated in the Court Room at Fredericton on Saturday morning, waiting the opening of the Court and the sentence upon him in the contempt case, he fell to the floor in a faint and had to be removed to a friend's residence Proceedings in his case were delayed.

From late Kansas papers we make the following extracts, complimentary to a former Carleton County boy, Dr. Wm. M. Johnston, chairman of the Ness County Republican Central Committee:—

B zine Leader:—Dr. W. M. Johnston has been appointed a member of the board of pension examiners. Several other physicians of the county had numerous petitions and endorsements, but the Bazine doctor won the day. His many friends will be pleased to hear of his appointment.

Ness City Times:—Dr. W. M. Johnston, of Bazine, and Dr. Hankins, of this city, have been appointed examining surgeons of Ness County. The Times congratulates.

Methodistic.

According to a statement in the Sun, of last Saturday, the Methodist Conference placed itself, or got itself placed, in rather a peculiar position. The Conference, in session last week, had closed up business and adjourned. Among the items of business was, of course, the stationing of ministers for the year or term of years. Centenary Church was without a pastor and could not get the man originally desired to succeed Mr. Brewer; that is, there was no man they wanted in the Conference who was free this year under the rule, or usual practice of a pastor remaining in a charge not less than two years and not more than three. Dr. Sprague was the incumbent of the church at Marysville, and, being a minister of unquestioned ability, would be acceptable to any church. By some means, Dr. Sprague was put down by the stationing committee for Centenary Church, and this appointment was ratified by Conference, while Rev. Mr. Crisp was given Marysville.

Now the church buildings, at Marysville, and the parsonage, were built by Mr. Alex. Gibson, the church there is largely supported by him, and the entire community are his employees. The Conference had, as stated, done its work and its members left for home, when a telegram from Mr. Gibson was received to the effect that a minister need not be sent to Marysville, as, while no objection personally was entertained to Mr. Crisp, the Conference having withdrawn Dr. Sprague before his time had expired, the church there would provide itself with a pastor and would not receive the appointee of the Conference. The president was recalled to St. John.

The features of the case mentioned, are somewhat similar to those in regard to the pastorate of the Woodstock church. The now present incumbent came here last year from P. E. Island, and the church was at a large expense in connection with his removal; it was a profound surprise when, on the first stationing sheet being issued, it was found that Mr. Shenton was down for Fredericton, as this was not only the first intimation the church here had received of the pastor having any desire for, or of his intentions to seek, a change, but it had received his positive assurance of remaining. The change was made, however, and Rev. Mr. Dobson is to become the pastor of the church in this town.

A Good Move.

Our Town Council, taking advantage of what was hoped to be Woodstock's opportunity, the late fire at McAdam, have opened negotiations with the president of the N. B. Railway Co., with a view of having the establishment of the railway works at Woodstock. We sincerely trust the effort may be successful, But we fear that, with the lost opportunity of a few years ago, Woodstock forfeited its chance in the matter.

Woodstock & Centreville Railway.

At a meeting of the Directors of above company held at the office of S. B. Appleby, on the 1st, it was decided that the turning of the first sod should take place, on Monday the 22nd of the present month on the farm of Nathaniel Gregg, Centreville. An assessment was ordered on the stock of the company for the purpose of immediately commencing the construction of said road. In this connection we might mention an act of liberality on the part of Mr. Gregg, in the gift of one mile of right of way, across his valuable farm, free.

Matrimonial.

Mr. Frank R. Brooks, of Upper Southampton, was, on the 26th ult., united in marriage to Miss Agnes V. Dunphy, daughter of Mr. Edward Dunphy, of St. Marys, York County. Miss Prudence A. Dunphy, sister of the bride, gracefully assisted the bride, and Mr. N. W. Brown performed the duty of groomsman. Rev. F. D. Crawley tied the connubial knot in his usual quiet yet brief and impressive manner. The bride and bridesmaid, who are both very pretty, were tastefully attired in elegant travelling costumes, and, immediately after breakfast, the party started for their beautiful home in Southampton. About 50 invitations were issued. Judging from the many magnificent gifts, the bride must have been very popular among her acquaintances.

Personal.

Mr. H. E. Reed, who has been absent since his retirement from the grocery business here, is in town.

Mrs. W. Swindell, of Hartford, Conn., is spending the hot season at her father's, E. Wilson, North Richmond.

Mr. T. E. Smith returned home on Thursday of last week from his Western trip, which was full of pleasant experiences.

Mr. Upton and family left on Tuesday, en route for their home in Japan. We wish them bon voyage The Misses Appleby accompanied Mr. Upton to New York.

Miss Mary Christian, Middle Simonds, accompanied by her niece, Miss Mary Turney, sailed from Quebec on the 20th, by one of the Allan line of steamers, for an extended visit to the Isle of Man.

The Grammar School

The closing exercises at the Grammar School, on Friday afternoon of last week, was attended by an usually large number of parents and visitors; a fact at once creditable to those thus presenting themselves and encouraging to the principal and pupils of the school. Mr. Steeves is evidently fired with the laudable ambition of placing the Woodstock Grammar School on a par with any similar institution in the Province, and possessing the essential qualities of a thoroughly competent teacher to support this ambition, he is bound to succeed—indeed has already established the fact, that no student need leave the county to find the facilities for acquiring a first-class grammar school education. In this connection we are glad to know Principal Steeves is receiving the cordial assistance of the Board of Trustees and the citizens generally.

The pupils were present in force on Friday, and discharged their several parts in a way to highly please their auditors and reflect credit on themselves and their Instructor The programme comprised: Opening Chorus; recitation, A leap for life, Hans Walker; reading, The Drummer Boy of Kent, Miss Kate McLeod; song and chorus, Ring the School Bells, Miss Alma Colpitts; recitation, The legend of Bregenz, Miss Mamie Clarke; chorus, Song of the roses; recitation, Tom, Dick and Harry, Adam Dickinson; reading selection from prize essay, Miss Clarke; duet, music on the waves, Miss Annie Good and Jennie Townsend; recitation, The Polish Boy, Miss Helen Good; recitation, The dying singer, Isabel Watts; chorus, Now comes vacation; national anthem. Isabel Watts presided at the organ.

Mr. Steeves in the course of his remarks stated that the number enrolled during the last term was 38; average attendance, 26. The work done had been satisfactory and the interest displayed by pupils commendable. Contrary to expectation, only one pupil presented herself for matriculation examination. Miss Mamie Clarke, and she according to President Harrison's statement, had passed a first-class examination. He stated that the Montreal Witness prize for best essay on Carleton County, McCaully's History of England in 4 volumes, had been won by Adam Dickinson; that Miss Mamie Clarke was the winner of the Wm. M. Connell silver medal, and that Mary D. Clark, Geo. Hamilton and Lizzie Tacy, were each entitled to a diploma, for having successfully passed the 11th grade.

Wm. M. Connell, in fitting terms, presented the silver medal to Miss Clarke, and announced that his medal next year would be given for the best essay on the Dominion of Canada.

Major Vince had offered a number of prizes for the best general standing among the scholars in the lower grades, but not being able to be present, J. R. Murphy, in his behalf made the presentations, consisting of books, to the following scholars: Lulu Vince, Clara Estey, Mary D. Connell, Augustus J. Milmore, Annie Boutreau, Bessie Neales, Nellie Fisher, Rice C. Watson, Estella B. Dalling and C. G. Hamilton. Before taking his seat Mr. Murphy announced that he would give a prize next year to the best scholar in such a branch of classics as the Principal may name.

The school was then addressed in highly eulogistic terms by Trustees, McCormac, Saunders and Watts, Rev. Canon Neales, Col. W. T. Baird and Revds. E. J. Grant and Jas. Ross. The latter gentleman, as one of the examiners to whom the essays for the silver medal had been submitted, stated that the examiners found much difficulty in deciding upon the relative merits of the essays; in fact each examiner had selected a different one, but in the end had agreed upon that of Miss Clark's as being the one entitled to the prize. Mr. Ross showed that the compositions had been submitted to a keen, careful and critical scrutiny; that so few errors had been discovered, after such a close examination is complimentary in the extreme to the writers. His thoughtful and kindly expressed remarks must have been appreciated by the authors of the essays, and will doubtless aid them in their future attempts at composition.

DOMINION DAY.

The weather on Canada's national holiday was very pleasant, if anything too warm for comfort. In the morning the firemen of Woodstock Hose Co. No. 1 gave a grand exhibition, showing how scientifically, neatly and quickly streams of water could be applied in case of fire.

At 10 o'clock a. m., a goodly number of spectators had found their way to the base ball grounds in the Driving Park, where a match game took place between the employees of Grant & Co. and Small & Fisher's establishments. For workmen, coming from hard labor, and with very little practice, the game was rather a good one. Of course errors were plenty and scores were more so, but the game was interesting and caused a good deal of enjoyment, although the teams were not evenly matched. Small & Fisher's employees won the victory by a score of 62 to 26. Small & Fisher's men were James Tacey, Charlie Atherton, John Werner, John Curry, Charlie Howard, M. Shea, Elmer Gray and Messrs. Green and Scribner; Shea and Tacey was the battery. Grant & Co.'s nine were Messrs. Charlton, Hicks, M. Stephenson, Chestnut, N. McDonald, Austin, Clark, Carpenter and S. Tabor; Hicks and Charlton was the battery. Mr. Harry Churchill, of the Wanderers' base ball club, blossomed out as an umpire, and his debut was satisfactory to both parties; Mr. Henry Parker was scorer.

During the day, dinner, supper and refreshments were supplied in the Town Hall by the Hose Co., who were fairly well patronized, realizing some $50 there, beside money which was contributed by different citizens. The firemen will, probably, clear $120 in all.

The Opera House, in the evening, was crowded before the curtain was rung up on the Firemen's Minstrels and Concert The following programme was presented: Opening chorus, by company; Overture, by orchestra, embracing Profs. Barry and Latta, violin and organ; song, "You rock, I rock," Tony Locke; song, "Bring back my Barney to me," Mr. Swyny; song, "Big black Estella in the cellar," Mr. Brayley; song, "I'll take you back again, Kathleen," Tommy McRae; song, "They all love Jack," Mr. Brayley; cradle song, Tony Locke; Grand walk around of colored grenadiers, by company; dances, by James McRae; song, "Belle of the ball," Mr. Swyny; song, "Poor old bum," Mr. Brayley; "Celebrated Sweat Act"; song, by Mr. Swyny; "Huckleberry Picnic," by company; Light and heavy balancing, John McUlement; Irish song and dance, and challenge clog, by Tony Locke; concluding with the farce, "He wanted to be a lawyer and got left." Some of the features were grand while others, although not so good, would probably pass, remembering the Hose Co. are amateurs at the business. The circle presented was very good, Ed. Shaughnessy acting as interlocutor, and Messrs. Locke and Brayley taking the parts of Bones and Tambo, respectively. Before dismissing the audience, C. S. Woodling, on behalf of Hose Co, tendered their thanks to the citizens for the assistance and patronage extended.

A large number of spectators, some 800, witnessed the races on the Driving Park. The entries for each of the four classes were sufficient, but in three of the four only two horses came to the wire for the start. It would be more acceptable to the spectators, as well as more interesting, if it could be possible to have more horses come to the scratch. In the farmers' race, A. P. Birmingham's Strawberry came to the stand with the other two horses, but he was challenged and ruled out, on account of having previously trotted for money. The judges were G. R. Ketchum, M. P. P., and ex-Mayor Connell, Woodstock, and J. E. Burnham, Houlton, Me; Albert Page, Houlton, timer; H. B. White, Centreville, clerk. Between heats in the 2 40 class, H. McLean's pacer, Sandy Morris, jr., was sent for a mile, on exhibition; he succeeded in making the half-mile in 1 10½, and the mile in the quick time of 2.24½. The driver says he can do even better than that, and will in the near future. The following are the summaries of the four classes trotted:—

Fire at McAdam.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Hayes, one of the pattern makers for the Railway Co., was at work alone in the pattern shop at McAdam, when the glue-pot lamp exploded and the flames spread with great rapidity, Mr. Hayes being badly burned on one hand while attempting to extinguish them. The pattern shops were low wooden buildings, near to the machine shop, which latter the fire quickly reached, and, in a short time, these buildings with the boiler shop, blacksmith shop and ten cars loaded with lumber and hay, standing on one of the sidings, were consumed.

Many of the workmen had gone to their homes on Saturday; the water in the reservoir and tank was low so that pumps and hose could not be effectively applied and the men had therefore only the primitive resource of buckets and hand labor with which to fight the flames which they did heroically, may be judged from the fact that the paint shop, storehouse and Mr. Haggerty's office, all in pretty close contiguity to the burned buildings, were saved. The extreme heat of the sun, on Sunday, rendered the labor of fire fighting the more oppressive and it is wonderful that there are no serious casualities to record. The boiler and pump which drove the machine shop engine was only partially damaged. There were in the machine shop, when the fire started, a number of locomotives but they were all got out by hand or by the yard engine and saved.

On Saturday the buildings destroyed were the scene of active industry in which were operating the finest collection of machinery in the Maritime Provinces, probably, the entire outfit in tools and machinery being very complete and had been thoroughly well arranged by the Mechanical Superintendent to do to best advantage their work. On Sunday evening only chimneys and burned and almost worthless remains of machinery marked the place. The workmen, many of them, lost valuable tools.

The loss is variously estimated, but it will not, we should suppose, be less than $50,000; how much of this is covered by insurance has not yet been learned. It is supposed that the work of restoring the shops will be proceeded with immediately.

While the Railway Co. will suffer heavily, those of the employees, who for some time will be out of employment, will feel the disaster most keenly.

A Successful Institution—A Successful Student.

St. Joseph's College, Memramcook, has earned for itself a reputation, which places it side by side with the leading educational institutions of the Province. The closing exercises at the College took place last week, and resulted, as upon all former occasions, in proving the excellent quality of the work being done thereat. Among the students was Mr. Daniel Gallagher, son of Warden C. E. Gallagher, Johnville. This young gentleman fairly covered himself with honors. He secured two medals, viz, the Jubilee medal and the classic medal, and in the classical course he was the fortunate winner of premiums in Latin Discourses, Latin Versions, Greek Versions, Greek Roots, Geology, History, Algebra and Geometry, in each case standing first in the class. We congratulate Mr. Gallagher on his present success and trust it may be typical of the success which shall attend him in life.

ST. ANDREWS AGAIN.

We may supplement the remarks of last week on St. Andrews. The Algonquin Hotel was formally opened last Friday under very pleasing and promising auspices. The guests large as to numbers and representative in character came from Boston, Portland, Lewiston, Augusta, Bangor, Calais, Montreal, St. John, Fredericton, St. Stephen, Woodstock, etc., and were received by host Jones and Mrs. Jones in a way to make everyone feel, at once, at home, while gentlemen, officials of the hotel company, gave their assistance in promoting the happiness of the occasion.

Sir Leonard Tilley, who on that day reached McAdam on his return from the West, was met at that point by Lady Tilley and they joined the visitors proceeding to St. Andrews and gave prestige to the affair. Governor Burleigh, of Maine, and his lady were also of the company, and those of our own people who made the acquaintance of Gov. Burleigh were greatly pleased with his genial manner and his intelligent conversation. The two Governors, no doubt, enjoyed this opportunity of comparing notes; on some subjects their views, we presume, are in strict harmony.

The Governor of Maine was accompanied by quite a brilliant suite, in uniform, of gentlemen who made a fine impression.

The programme of the opening consisted of lunch, reception including a review of the entire house from its splendid kitchen with a chef whose modest salary is $250 per month, to the observatory; dinner, ball and supper. Just before the dancing commenced, as an interlude, there was a presentation by Mr. Gardiner, of Boston, who is V. P. of the St. Andrews Land Co. of a handsome gold watch and chain to Mr. Horton, the superintendent of the company.

It is needless to say that the hotel in all its departments is provided with all the essentials for thorough enjoyment and repose; to meet the requirements of the more as well as of the less fastidious. Located on an eminence, while immediately surrounded by fine grounds, where a little more age is only wanted to give full effect to the labor expended, the view in every direction is surpassingly beautiful, the town itself, nestling just below in a wealth of foliage, presenting a most inviting appearance. In the evening, when the spacious verandahs of the Algonquin were aglow with gas-lighted Chinese lanterns and transparencies, the effect was charming. Men and women who from the circumstances of business are compelled to endure the weather of Summer in cities and towns, might be excused for indulging a feeling of envy for the more favored who can leave care and dust and the thermometers in the nineties behind them, and calmly enjoy the Summer solstace in the pleasant air and amid the charming associations of such a Summer resort as St Andrews. Those in charge of "the opening" did well to secure the attendance of so large a press representation—the press of Boston, Augusta, Bangor, St. John, being well represented—not the Algorquin alone but St. Andrews, and that section of the country will be advantaged by the reflections and observations of those gentlemen.

THE CAMP.

From the Algonquin, in the distance, the white tents of the encamped militia were visible. In company of a genial friend from St. John, we went out and visited the camp and found the boys looking well, hearty and happy, and their camp soldierly and well appointed; indeed one would be disappointed to find it otherwise. Col. Maunsell, Major Vince, Col. Domville, Lt. Tompkins, Surgeon Connell and others of the officers, by their courteous attention, rendered this visit a most agreeable one.

The officers of the Brigade Staff had inaugurated, to come off on Wednesday of this week, a military concert in aid of the Johnstown sufferers. A special feature of the entertainment to be physical movements to music—a novelty just introduced in the camp and a most interesting one as it was explained by Major Vince. For the purpose of this concert Capt. Herbert had most thoughtfully offered the use of the spacious dining hall of the Argyle.

THE ARGYLE.

A call at the Argyle, which, by the way, in location, size and ample appointments, is a most inviting and popular home for Summer lingerers by the sea, was met by a cordial welcome of the proprietor who had entertained that day a houseful of guests and will have a houseful during the Summer months.

IN GENERAL.

It must have been thirty five years ago that the writer attended the first railway celebration in St. Andrews; a celebration of the opening of the N. B & C. road to a point a few miles out of St. Andrews. The town at that date was very dull but the people very hopeful. To reach St. Andrews from Woodstock we had then to go to St. John and over land by stage to St. George. By very slow degrees the railway crept along reaching somewhat prominent points at Canterbury, Richmond and finally Woodstock, establishing a union between the two towns which should have proved a bond of sympathy stronger and more practical than it probably has. Wonderful indeed has been the change effected since the date referred to; St. Andrews in its physical appearance has changed as much in degree as has Woodstock, and today the business prospects of the former appear to be luminous. Both towns owe much to the railway development. The service done by the N. B. & C. was good service for the time but it was only in dreams that the sanguine anticipated such a railway service as the New Brunswick management gives to day, when those desiring to go can choose of four different trains daily for reaching Boston or St. John, and of three for St. Andrews or St. Stephen.

At Middle Simonds, June 16th, Minne M. aged twenty years, daughter of Joseph and Mary Ann Simonds. The deceased was a young person of a very amiable disposition. Her extreme modesty made her real worth known only to her most intimate friends, but her illness and death have been deeply felt by the whole community.

Young people, all attention give!
And warning take by me;
In midst of life we are in death;
This truth, we plainly see.

A few short days and I was full
Of life and health as you;
Now, called by God to leave this world
And bid you all, adieu!

Oh! sisters dear, and brothers kind
Farewell,—a long farewell;
'Tis hard to part with those we love,
But Christ does all things best.

But may this solmn warning now,
By God in kindness given,
Make all more earnestly prepare
To meet their friends in Heaven.
