> True, aged seventeen years and twenty-two days, danghter of Chas, and Christianna True. Young people all attention give, And warning take by me,

This truth we plainly see. A few short days and I was full Of life and health as you : Now called by God to leave this world And bid you all adieu! Oh sisters dear, and brother kind, Farewell, a long farewell! 'Tis hard to part with those we love. But Christ does all things well. Afflicted parents weep no more.

Nor grieve at God's decree. A father's tear, a mother's woe,

"In midst of life we are in death."

Are touching things to see. But may this solemn warning now. By God in kindness given, Make all more earnestly prepare To meet their friends in the kingdom.

Dearest father thou art gone From our midst for ever more. God has called thee to his realm On the bright Celestial shore. Bereft of thy parental care, We must wander here alone ; No kind words of counsel From thy lips will ever come.

When our sojourn on earth is past, In the promised land of the righteous Where all family ties shall last. Rew Advertisements.
