New Year's Bells Ring, glad bells through the fresty sky! Say that the Old Year passeth by! Say that the New Year draweth nigh, For which the nations long.
Say that the eyes are growing bright,
They have waited and watched through the long dark night;

Say that the sky hath a gleam of light,
And an echo of distant song. Ring, dear bells, through the wintry air; Scatter the messages everywhere; Send, through the prisons of despair, A whisper of coming good. Over the darksome hills of time There breaketh the light of a day sublime When never a hand stained with crime,

Sing, glad bells, sing your happy song! Though the good be weak and the evil stro Though the reign of the right delayeth long,
It is coming bye and bye; Amid your pauses we can hear
The sweep of a garment drawing near—
The golden robe of the glad New Year
That never shall go by.

Nor a heart misunderstood

O gladsome year! O blessed time! When knowledge up to Heaven shall climb; When science shall reach the glorious prime When vice shall be a hated thing; When love shall sit and shall rule as King; When the apottess flowers of peace shall spring Beside the lowliest ways.

Ring, happy hells, through the listening sky! Say that the evil passeth by;
Say that the good can never die,
That the right can never fail.
And, though our eyes can but dimly see The signs of the coming victory, Yet ring, ring out, with voice of glee, And bid the future hail!

You seem at home here,' remarked a man at the post office to the postmaster. 'Yes,' replied the latter, 'this is my stamplng ground.'

Lewis has a quaintly-conceived Sants Claus poem for the youngsters, which Margaret E. Sangster follows with illustrated verse. Edward W. Bok tells what are the literary tastee of two such great men as Gladstone and Rismarck. Then follows a perfect wealth of suggestions for Christmas dinners, women's fashions, holly decorations for the home, still further succeeded by the most readable articles and stories by Florence Howe Hall, Eben E. Rexford, Eliza R. Parker, Emma M. Hooper and Mary Barrett Brown. To be surprised what a really perfect magazine can be given for almost nothing, let any one of our poeition to-day: From a retrospective our readers send 10 cents for this number of The Ladies Home Journal.
