It is claimed that a French steamer, the "Geographical," intentionally ran down a sailing vessel at sea.

Artell, the celebrated three-year-old trotter, beat the record 2:13, by trotting a mile in 2:12, at Terre Haute, Ind., last week.

St. John is likely soon to have the Incandescent light introduced; so much for the example set by her big sister Woodstock.

The Brooklyn Tabernacle, Dr. Talnage's, was entirely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning last. Loss, $150,000. Insured.

In the United States, the estimates for feeding inmates of the prisons are more liberal than those for persons dependent on public charities.

The Rev. George M. Armstrong, a widely known minister of the Church of England, St. John, died at his residence on Saturday last, aged 72 years.

It is stated that, at least, 500,000 pounds of tobacco was destroyed by frost in one County of Kentucky, on the nights of 8th, 9th and 10th inst.

The Gladstones are capturing about all the seats in recent parliamentary elections; where they have not returned their candidates, the Conservative majority have been largely reduced.

At Osnied, N. Y., on the 9th, a fiendish attempt was made to poison the Rev. Father J. A. Kelly, at Massena. Arented had been put into the sacramental wine, of which the priest took a portion, and it was some time before he recovered.

Mrs. George A. Barker, widow of the late Mayor of St. John, is certainly to be deeply sympathized with. She has within a short time lost father, mother, husband and a child, and now her only brother, Willie McDonald, is under arrest for murder.

Racing by Atlantic steamer is very likely, if continued, to result in some great disaster. On the 11th, the "City of New York," which had tried her speed with another steamer from England, ran ashore at Sandy Hook and will probably be a total loss.

It is hard to believe the statement for fact, in the betting that at races on tracks near New York city, there is distributed, in the season of five months, $30,000,000. This is in addition to legitimate expenses of various kinds figured at $1,000,000.

Hon. Mr. Turner has resigned his place as a member of the Executive Council of the Province, for personal reasons it is said. Mr. V. J. LeBlanc, M. P. P. for Kent Co., succeeds him. This will give the French a representative in the Government.

After enjoying the honor and advantage of the great Carnival, the St. John City Council is now wrestling with the question who should pay the deficiency of $2,000. It is suddenly discovered that it is questionable whether the city derived any benefit.

Because modern prophets have several times proved wrong in their estimates as to the time at which this world would be destroyed, it does not invalidate the Bible prophecies touching that event or the scientific conclusions that it is among the probabilities that the smash will come.

Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, in a speech, recently, at Yarmouth, N. S., said "I will, however, say frankly that the Government are not in favor of unrestricted reciprocity, even if it could be obtained."

In the same speech he gave an emphatic contradiction to the charge that the Government opposed all forms of reciprocity.

A singular suit was that, brought at Toronto, of Mr. Joseph Brennan, of Hamilton, against her father-in-law, M. Brennan, for $30,000 damages for having mistreated his son's character and financial standing, to her, thereby inducing her to marry him, which was condoned by the jury disagreeing. Mrs. Brennan and husband, have separated. The case is an unprecedented one.

Peace Has Her Victories.

The public attention has been paid to Mr. Edison in England and on the continent, and the strong desire shown by the rulers and leaders of state to do him honor, is evident proof that civilization and religion have educated society up to a standard of respect for the great workers with hands as well as brains. Not now are wreaths of fame reserved alone for the heroes of the battle field, but they are bestowed with hearty good will upon the toilers in the field of science and the practical appliances of science to mechanic arts.

The world is learning, but not fast enough, that the victories of peace are far greater and more important than those of war.

Slow to Learn.

The rulers of Russia, or rather its ruler, is slow to learn the lesson, which is taught by the state of Russian society, to recognize the fact that, also by force of arms and numbers and by a universal system of espionage, he may for a time suppress or restrain the desire which is abroad for a constitution which will afford to the governed popular rights, such as are accorded in nearly all the other great nations, that desire is a live and unquenchable impulse which can never be satisfied short of receiving the boon sought for.

Nihilism, the spectre, a full-blown one at that, which haunts constantly the Czar and envelops him in a cloud of distrust and fear, is not a mere clamor of ignorant rabble but it is the nomenclature of a people and of a principle for which that people contends. The spirit actuating it is the same which has occurred from other Governments constitutional rights and it is a spirit that must ultimately prevail.

Nihilism permeates Russian society generally and the fact that arrests are being made of students in the Universities, including ladies, is one of the evidences that dissatisfaction exists among the lower, as well as the ignorant and that the more intelligent are, really, the most thoroughly imbued with the revolutionary spirit.

Death of Hugh McMonagle.

Hugh McMonagle died at his residence, Sussex, on Saturday, after a short illness, having been stricken with paralysis a few days before; he was 72 years old. Mr. McMonagle was well known throughout the Province as an agriculturist and stock breeder, and especially for his interest in horses. He was for a short time in the House of Assembly and was largely instrumental in the defeat of the Chandler-Wilmot Government in 1856, which he previously supported.

A speech made by him in the Assembly Hall, while the ceremony of prostration was going forward in the Council Chamber, was reported by a CARLETON SENTINEL representative, who was present, in which paper it was first published, was widely spread and afforded excellent campaign literature at the following general election.

A Strange Necessity.

We read that, in Vermont, the scheme of inviting immigrants to take the abandoned farms is attracting considerable attention. The neglected land lies mostly among the Green Mountains. These farms when properly cultivated are among the most productive of the State.

The Legislature, at its last session, appointed a commission to make an investigation of the agricultural and manufacturing condition of the Commonwealth, and devise measures to resuscitate, develop and extend them. Whether any benefit will be derived from it beyond the collection of statistics is uncertain.

Commissioner Valentine says that the agitation of the colonization scheme has already resulted in a boom for Vermont. The commission is overrun with inquiries from all parts of the State about the Vermont lands with a view of purchasing, and he anticipates material benefit in the promotion of the industrial interests of the State.

These farms have been forsaken by their former proprietors, who were attracted by Western allurement.

That Inquest.

The investigation before the Coroner at St. John, in connection with the death of Mrs. Moore, has been continued down to the present and is not finished when we go to press.

The investigation has been very minute but inconclusive, and had it been continued by day, instead of merely by night sessions, might have been ended long ago. The only fact established thus far is the cause of Mrs. Moore's death. As to the prisoner McDonald, it may be questioned whether the evidence thus far is such as to lead to a verdict connecting him with the crime. As the Sun says:

Except the evidence of the penmanship, the fact that McDonald has been insane, and the circumstances that he was about the shop at night and had procured a key, there appears to be no reason why he should have been arrested rather than Mr. Gerow or Peters, or for that matter, the head of the firm. Some of these others also had keys and were likewise about the place after hours. It will be for the coroner's jury to determine the value of the distinctive evidence. The chief result of the inquest has been to clear the name of the prisoner McDonald. The result will be probably a matter for a criminal court whatever verdict is given by the present jury. If the verdict is still maintained with the evidence on which the prisoner was arrested, he will doubtless deem it sufficient to justify him, if continued, to result in some great disaster.

Kincaid Agricultural Show.

The annual show of the Kincaid Agricultural Society took place on Friday last week; the weather was propitious, and the attendance was large. In most of the departments there was a fair number of entries, and the exhibits, as a whole, were not only creditable, but gave some interesting testimony to what persevering, intelligent industry can do, even under more than ordinary discouraging circumstances. There were some handsome specimens of grade cattle and a few of thoroughbreds. The display of sheep was good, while the grain, roots and seed shown were of good quality. Some good samples of poultry were on exhibit. The exhibits of horses, as also that of the thoroughbreds and Ayrshires and grades were very good. The sheep shown were few in number but good in character. As was to be expected from the well known ability of the Kincaid ladies, the women's work department was well represented. Addresses were delivered by Messrs D. Irvine, G. W. White, Dr. A. S. E. Gilmour and John Home, and in the evening the young folks enjoyed a dance in Miller's Hall.

Aberdeen Agricultural Show.

The annual show of the Aberdeen Agricultural Society, was held at Glasgow, on the 9th inst., and notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather, drew together a large number of persons. Aberdeen always attracts a creditable display in agricultural shows, and this year was no exception to the rule. The vegetable display was very good, in potatoes, turnips, carrots, beets, cabbages, cress, pumpkins, all well ripened and unusually large. The grain shown, with the exception of oats, was of good quality. Some good samples of poultry were on exhibit. The exhibits of horses, as also that of the thoroughbreds and Ayrshires and grades were very good. The sheep shown were few in number but good in character. As was to be expected from the well known ability of the Kincaid ladies, the women's work department was well represented. Addresses were delivered by Messrs D. Irvine, G. W. White, Dr. A. S. E. Gilmour and John Home, and in the evening the young folks enjoyed a dance in Miller's Hall.
